ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the first place, I impute the success of this piece of investigation to Lord Shiva for bestowing upon me the impetus, resilience, dauntless grit and robust health to tide over all the hitches in the way of consummation of my long nurtured goal.

I am boundlessly indebted to the esteemed and venerable chairman of my advisory committee and head of the department, Dr. Desh Raj for his incessant exhortation, scrupulous guidance and valuable counsel which enabled me to keep my chin up during the rough patch. His incisive criticism has accorded me the stirring and nudge to undertake this herculean and arduous task with gusto. He has been incalculably courteous in procuring the necessary amenities as and when required.

Infinite gratitude to the reverent members of my advisory committee, Dr. (Mrs.) Nirmala Devi, Professor (Entomology), Dr. D. C. Sharma, Scientist (Entomology), Dr. A. S. Kapoor, Professor (Plant Pathology) and Dr. C. K. Oberoi, Professor (Chemistry) for their solicitous help and discreet suggestions in wrapping up my research work.

I am profusely thankful to Dr. P. K. Sharma, Dean, Postgraduate Studies from the core of my heart for providing academic assistance and other facilities during the entire study period. The financial backing proffered by the university in the form of merit scholarship is duly venerated.

I feel honoured to thank my uncle, Dr. D. Badiyala and also Dr. A. K. Sood and Dr. K. S. Verma for their whopping help and prolific suggestions in data analysis and thesis writing. I can't thank Dr. V. V. Ramamurthy, Project Director, Indian Agricultural Research Institute, New Delhi, enough for his adroit help in identification of insect species associated with okra crop.
I feel inundated with happiness to quote my profound and heartfelt thanks towards my doting and inimitable parents, Dr. S. D. Badiyala and Mrs. Subhadra Badiyala who instilled loads of confidence and credence in me to embark on this venture and pull it off assiduously with perfect aplomb.

I would take this opportunity to articulate oodles of thanks to my blithesome friend, Dr. Dhanbir for being an infallible and stalwart prop and also for being always at the ready to render unconditional help and stupendous support with alacrity.

I can’t put on the back seat the effervescent encouragement accorded to me by my adorable and loving siblings, Dr. Bindu Sharma, Geetika Sharma, Abhishek and my jijus, Dr. Amarith Sharma and Mr. Sanjeev Sharma who pepped me up when the chips were down and bolstered my morale to accomplish this project jubilantly and triumphantly. My chirpy little niece, baby Tavisha entails special citation for her inexplicably sweet and buoyant company during my study period.

The benign cooperation and helping hand extended by the office and field staff of the department is duly accredited. Last but not the least, authentic thanks to Mr. Ajay Walia for meticulous and conscientious preparation of the manuscript.

Pointless to say, all errors and omissions are mine.

Place : Palampur
Dated : December, 2007

(Aditi Badiyala)