ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Through this column, I would like to sincerely express my gratitude and utmost respect to all those who have helped me in completing my research work. A profound gratitude and appreciation to my respected mentor Prof. T. Lanusosang, under whose guidance, direction and advice this was made possible. I would also like to extend my gratefulness to the entire faculty members in the Department of Geography and Resource Management, Nagaland University for their unrelenting support, encouragement and advice.

My heartfelt gratitude also goes to the staffs in different libraries and government departments such as Central Library, Nagaland University; Central Library, NEHU, Shillong; Library, Department of Art and Culture, Kohima; Directorate of Information and Publicity, Kohima; Directorate of Economic and Statistics, Kohima; Directorate of Census Operation, Kohima, etc. Their yeomen service by providing me access to necessary study material is duly acknowledged.

I would be failing in my duty if the support of my friends and family members is not acknowledged. Their help, support and prayers has thus brought me this far.

While acknowledging the support and contributions made by all those named and unnamed, I take full responsibility for any error and uncalled for insertions in this thesis.

SAKULEMBA LONGKUMER