ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

This dissertation was undertaken and completed under the supervision of Dr. H.J.Narke, reader and head of the department of psychology, Vivekanand arts, commerce & Science College, Aurangabad. With his patient guidance and keen interest, Dr, Narke was a great source of encouragement at every stage of the work. The formal acknowledgement is an inadequate expression of any gratitude to him.

I must also make a grateful mention of the help given by Dr. Bina Awasthi, lecturer in psychology, Milind College of Arts, Aurangabad. I also must make a mention of the help given by Dr. P.Bansod, Professor, Padhye Vilas, Govt. college of Arts and Science, Aurangabad, Dr. Kanade, and Professor B.R. Kendre in getting me some of the books which I urgently needed. Their help has greatly facilitated the completion of this study. I thank Principal Dr. Chhaya Mahajan for the co-operation and inspiration which enabled me to complete my research work.

Thanks are also due to the librarian, Poona University, Pune for promptly loaning some of the books, I needed in order to carry out my research.

My major debt of gratitude, however is to my husband Dr. L.B. Waghmare, Son-in-law Dr. Yogesh Kamat, Mrs. Amita Kamat, Ms. Jiya kamat, Ms. Mayuri, Ms. Satyabhama Waghmare, my parents Shri. K.M.Bondade & Mrs. Satyabhama Bondade who during all these years of association, have silently taught me the meaning of Anxiety, Adjustment and Self concept.
