ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I wish to express my sincere and deepest appreciation to the following on completing my doctoral research.

First, my profound gratitude goes to my esteemed professor and guide Dr. (Mrs.) Lalithamma, Department of Studies in Education, University of Mysore, Mysore (now Professor, Head and Dean, School of Education, Pondicherry University), for her inspiration, constant and uncompromising support and invaluable suggestions in guiding me throughout and helping me ensure the completion of my thesis.

My sincere thanks also go to Dr (Mrs.) K. Yeshodhara, Professor and Chairperson of the Department of Studies in Education, University of Mysore, Mysore, and the faculty members for their valuable suggestions and support throughout this demanding, disciplined and dedicated endeavour.

I gratefully acknowledge the support and encouragement of the former Minister for Education and Youth of the Republic of Seychelles, H.E. Mr. Bernard Shamlaye, and the current Minister for Education, Employment and Human Resources of the Republic of Seychelles, H.E. Ms Macsuzy Mondon, and her Ministry for granting me permission to conduct my study in government schools in Seychelles and for other assistance they so kindly extended to me.

Special thanks go to the Director of the National Human Resources Development Council of Seychelles (NHRDC), Mrs Marina Confait, and her staff for granting me permission to conduct my Ph.D. in India and for their constant assistance in support of this.

My students of the erstwhile Class S1\textsuperscript{1} of Belonie and S1\textsuperscript{4} of Mont Fleuri (2008-2009), who enthusiastically and sincerely completed all the assigned tasks during my teaching as part of the treatment in the given time, deserve my appreciation for enriching my experience as a teacher as well as a researcher.
I place on record my sincere gratitude to the head teacher and staff of Belonie Secondary School (Seychelles) and the parallel group teacher Mrs. Menzy Moustache, and to the head teacher and staff of Mont Fleuri Secondary School (Seychelles) and the parallel group teacher Mr. Alex Mwange for the cooperation extended in the conduct of the experimental phase of the study. Heartfelt gratitude also goes to the following in Seychelles:

- Mrs Marie-Claude Morel, Head teacher of Belonie Secondary School and her staff;
- Mrs. RoseMary Bastienne, Head teacher of Mont Fleuri Secondary School and her staff;
- Mrs. Anne Marie Elizabeth, Head teacher of Beau Vallon Secondary School and her staff;
- Mrs. Rosemary Violette, Head teacher of English River Secondary School and her staff;
- Ms. Marie-Celine Albert, Head teacher of Anse Boileau Secondary School and her staff;
- Mrs. Marie-Cecile Benstrong, Head teacher of Plaisance Secondary School and her staff;
- Mr. Michael Antoine, Head teacher of Praslin Secondary School and her staff;
- Mr. Michel Madelein, Head of La Digue Secondary School and her staff for the generosity of their time and their untiring help and attention in allowing me to conduct the study in their schools.

Similar appreciation goes to the selected S1 students of the selected schools for their co-operation and patience.

Heartfelt and sincere gratitude also goes to the following in Mysore, India:

- Mr. Usha Singh, Principal of Maharshi Public School, Vishvesnaranagar, Mysore, and his staff;
- Rev. Saji Thomas, Principal of St Thomas Central School, Vishvesnaranagar, Mysore, and his staff;
- Mrs. Gladys Jaichander, Principal of St Joseph Central School, Yelwa, Mysore, and her staff;
Mr. S.S. Sahdev, Principal of Baden Powell Public School, Sri Jayachamrajendra Scours and Guides Bhavan, Mysore, and his staff; and

Mr. N. Chandu, Principal of Hari Vidyalaya Public School, CA-2 Railway Layout Bogadi, Mysore, and his staff for the generosity of their time and their untiring help and attention in allowing me to conduct the study in their schools.

Similar appreciation goes to the selected 8th Standard students of the selected schools for their co-operation and patience.

I cordially acknowledge Prof. Lancy D'Souza at the Maharaja’s college, Mysore, for his guidance and assistance with the analysis of the data using the SPSS package.

My heartfelt thanks and acknowledgement go to Prof. R. Indira, Director of International Centre, University of Mysore, U.C.F.A Premises, Mysore, and her staff for their invaluable assistance, guidance and counseling throughout my course.

My sincere thanks also go to Dr. Asha Kamath for allowing me to make use of her map skills test which was constructed in 1998.

My acknowledgments would be incomplete if I did not register my deepest gratitude to the Indian Council for Cultural Relations (ICCR) for granting me the scholarship/fellowship which enabled me to pursue this course.

The invaluable moral support I received from Mr. Ronny Jumeau (Seychelles) is hereby deeply appreciated.

I also place on record my heartfelt thanks to all my dear friends, colleagues at the NIE (National Institute of Education of Seychelles), and family members, especially my dear mother who contributed in helping and supporting me in realizing my data collection in Seychelles.
I gratefully acknowledge the never ending help of my all-weather friend Ms Norma Govinden who assisted in data collection in Seychelles.

A deep sense of gratitude also goes to all my excellent friends and colleagues from the Department of Studies in Education, University of Mysore, Mysore, who so generously extended their help and understanding. I gratefully acknowledge the ever-ready help of my dearest friends, Ms Asha Sougaijam, from the Sociology Department, University of Mysore, and Mr. Flint Gappy, from Department of Criminology and Forensics Science, University of Mysore, for helping with the data collection in the selected schools in Mysore.

Finally, I express my sincere appreciation to Softouch and their Staff for their excellent work in printing and binding this thesis.

Thanking you all,

Dorothy Bernadette Felix
