References

References

Balasubramanyam, M. V. (2011). Chemical Characteristics of multifloral wild and apiry flavonoids as protection agents against oxidative damage to human red blood cells. Food Chemistry. 104: 1635–1640.

References

Reviews. 12: 564–582.

Preliminary contribution to the characterisation of artisanal honey produced on the island of Ireland by palynological and physico-chemical data. Food Chemistry. 91: 347–354

References

Gonzalez-Miret, M. L., Terrab, A., Hernanz, D., Fernandez-Recamales, M. A. and References

10: 5-12.

References

References

Kaskoniene, V. and Venskutonis, P. R. (2010). Floral markers in honey of various botanical and geographic origins: A review. Comprehensive reviews in food science and food safety. 9: 620–634.

References

References

extracts from Cistus ladaniferus on autoxidation, superoxide radicals, hydroxyl radicals and DPPH radicals. Nutrition Research. 22: 519–526.

References

Apisflorea and Trigona. Indian Bee Journal. 30: 3-8.

References

Food Chemistry 58: 129-133.

References

http://dx.doi.org/10.1155/2015/858049

