Acknowledgements

First of all, I prostrate in reverence before Almighty Allah, the most benevolent, the cherisher and the sustainer. I am highly indebted and grateful to the grace of the Almighty “One Universal Being”, who inspired and blessed me with innumerable favors to complete this work.

I feel great pleasure to express my deep sense of gratitude and respect to my supervisor, Prof. Ali Mohammad, Chairman, Department of Applied Chemistry, Z.H. College of Engineering and Technology, AMU, Aligarh for his invaluable guidance, expertise, understanding and constant encouragement throughout the research experience. His systematic and analytical approach blended with innovative ideas helped me to understand the basics of research and to overcome many experimental hurdles. Above all, I especially appreciate the freedom and love; he has showered upon me during my study.

It is with immense gratitude that I thank Dr. Inamuddin, Lecturer, Department of Applied Chemistry, F/O Engg. & Tech., A.M.U., for his amicable nature, constant encouragement, patience, valuable suggestions and support throughout the entire work. I would also like to acknowledge all the teaching and non-teaching members of this department for their cordial cooperation and affirmative responses.

I would like to offer my sincere thanks to all my research colleagues; Dr. Abdul Moheman, Dr. Sameen Iasset; Dr. Fouzia Farooq, Asra, Nida and Sardar for their generous support at several occasions in the path of this study.
It ventilates my profound sense of obligations to all my friends, especially Uzma Khan, Shazia Malik, Sheerin and Sahar for their timely help, good wishes, encouragement and affections.

I feel short of words and full of emotions in thanking My Family for the unconditional love, dua, constant inspiration and support they have always provided at every phase of my life and study. I am very lucky to have the blessings and love of my younger sister Ms. Shirazi Amin and my dear younger brother Mr. Waqar Amin.

Existence of me, as a person, as a doctor, was impossible without my great parents. The vision and teaching about life which I inherited from my father, Mr. Amin Ullah Khan always accompanied me in my ups and downs and had been a constant source of inspiration to me. I find myself short of words to mention my thanks to my loving and caring mother, Mrs. Sultana Amin. Last but not the least my in-laws, especially Syed Adil Ahmad for his immense love, support and affection.

I would like to make special thanks to my maternal uncle and aunt and my cousins Mr. Zeeshan Kamal Khan & Mr. Khurram Kamal Khan who encouraged me at every stage of my life.

Finally, I would like to thank everybody who was important to the successful realization of thesis, as well as expressing my apology that I could not mention personally one by one.

(Arshi Amin)