Synopsis .................................................................. 6

1) Introduction and review of literature .............................................. 10
   1.1) Objectives of the study ...................................................... 32

2) Materials and methods .......................................................... 33
   2.1, Collection and storage of plant materials ................................ 34
   2.2 Extraction procedure .......................................................... 34
   2.3 Preliminary phytochemical screening ..................................... 35
   2.4 In vitro antioxidant and antidiabetic evaluation of the selected plant extracts. 38
      2.4.1 Assessment of antioxidant activity ................................... 38
      2.4.2 Determination of antidiabetic activity ............................... 39
   2.5) Isolation and Characterisation of antioxidant and anti diabetic compounds from the selected plants. 40
      2.5.1) Preparation of extract and bioassay guided isolation and characterisation of antioxidant and antidiabetic compounds from the selected plants. 40
      2.5.2) Fractionation and purification of the crude methanol extract 41
   2.6) In vivo evaluation of antioxidant and antidiabetic activity of the selected plant extracts in streptozotocin induced diabetic rats. 43
      2.6.1) Preparation of plant extracts .......................................... 43
2.6.2) Toxicity studies and selection of dose 43

2.6.3) Design and justification of the experiment 43

2.7) Measurement of basic metabolic parameters 45

2.8) Measurement of antioxidant enzymes and carbohydrate metabolising enzymes. 48

2.9) Molecular targets of the plant extracts 52

3) Results and Discussion 55
