ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I express with all the sincerity my deep sense of gratitude to Late Dr. R. Subrahmanyam, a distinguished Archaeologist-Historian and former Professor and Head of the Department of Ancient History and Archaeology, Nagarjuna University, under whom I first registered for my Ph. D. It was he, who initiated me into research and suggested the topic on which the thesis is presently prepared. In his sad and sudden demise, I lost a paternal guide and philosopher. Later I pursued my work under the able supervision of Dr. B. Rajendra Prasad, Reader, in the same Department. I express my deep sense of gratitude for his scholarly advice and efficient guidance in completing the thesis.

I am very much thankful to Dr. B.R. Subrahmanyam, Professor and Head of the Department of History and Archaeology, for the general interest he has been showing in the progress of my work.

I am very much beholden to Dr. B.S.L. Hanumantha Rao presently Hon. Professor, Department of Buddhist Studies, without whose constant encouragement and scholarly suggestions this work could not have been completed.
I thank Dr. V.V. Krishna Sastry, Director, Department of Archaeology and Museums, Government of Andhra Pradesh and Dr. N. Mukunda Rao, Dy. Director, Epigraphy, for permitting me to work in the Departmental library.

I thank the Authorities of Nagarjuna University for awarding me the University Research Fellowship for three years.

I thank Dr. P.V. Parabrahma Sastry, Retd. Deputy Director, Epigraphy, Government of Andhra Pradesh for his valuable suggestions from time to time.

I thank Dr. V. Rangan, Reader, Department of English for his suggestions and advice.

I acknowledge with gratitude the encouragement given to me by the Librarian of Nagarjuna University and his staff.

My thanks are also due to Dr. C.V. Udaya Sankar, Department of Buddhist Studies and Dr. V. Sri Ramachandra Murty, Department of History and Archaeology for extending their cooperation in the course of my research.

I thank the staff of the Departments of History and Archaeology and Buddhist Studies and my friends in those Departments for their encouragement and cooperation.
