I thank the almighty God and all those wonderful people who supported my ideas and provided the much needed direction that was essential at every stage of my study, from the conceptualization of my research ideas, finding gaps and during the whole process of my study, till I ultimately submitted the complete Ph.D. thesis in this present form.

First and foremost my deepest gratitude and thanks goes to my guide, Dr. Purva G. Hegde Desai, Associate Professor, Department of Management Studies, Goa University, for her overwhelming support, help and advice, throughout the study period. It was a great privilege to work under her guidance, and feel academically enriched. It was a great learning experience. I have highest regard for Dr. Purva, for her high standard of excellence set for herself and for her students in the Department of Management Studies, Goa University.

I thank Dr. Nandakumar, Mekoth, Dean, and Professor, Department of Management Studies, Goa University, who has been an inspiration to me, from the days of my post-graduation in Goa University. I thank sir, for his guidance during the course of my doctoral study.

I express my sincere thanks to Dr. Dayanand M.S., Head Department of Management Studies, Goa University, for providing invaluable insights and thought-provoking constructive critics which helped me in a major way to progress in the right direction.
I express my deepest gratitude to Professor, A. Shreekumar, former Dean of the Department of Management Studies, Goa University, for providing inputs at the initial stage of my doctoral study.

I am thankful to Sr. Aradhana A.C., my FRC committee member for her guidance during the regular FRC presentations of this thesis and for her thought provoking comments which helped me to define and sharpen my research pursuits.

It gives me great pleasure to acknowledge the help and guidance received from, Dr. Nilesh Borde and Dr. Nirmala R., during the course of my Ph.D. study.

I am thankful to all the fellow researchers, in the Department of Management studies, Goa University for their support and encouragement.

I highly appreciate the efforts put in by my colleague and friend Ms. Anita Jacob, Associate Professor, Department of English, Government College, Sankhali, Goa, for assisting me to present my Ph.D. thesis in appropriate, English Language.

Appreciation is expressed to Mr. Vinay Chodankar, my ex-student who has been very helpful to me, throughout the period of my Ph.D. study.

I am very grateful to my husband, Mr. Anthony M. De Souza for helping me in all the possible ways and being there when I needed him the most during my study period.

My special thanks to my God child Queence P. Da Silva and my daughter, Ms. Sara Marisa De Souza who knowingly or unknowingly extended cooperation during, my study period. They have been my joy and happiness and inner inspiration and a great motivational force throughout the progress of my doctoral work.

My thanks go to my father late Jose Francisco De Souza for the kind of direction and positivism that he had instilled in me as a child. He always believed and let me believe, that hard work will always lead towards success.

I express deep gratitude to my mother, late Maria Isabel Miranda e De Souza, a pioneering woman who provided endless motivation and inspiration to complete my Ph.D. thesis.

I also extend my appreciation to all my sisters specially my elder sister Maria Conception Hilda De souza e Da silva for extending all her help and assistance, throughout the study period.

Last but not the least I thank the administrative staff, of the, Department of Management Studies, Goa University, for all their administrative help and assistance extended during the study period.

Ms. Fatima Sousa