ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I have received generous help from many quarters in conducting the present study which I have pleasure to put on record here.

I am grateful to my Research Director, Dr. P.V. Krishna Rao, M.Com., Ph.D., Reader, Department of Commerce, Nagarjuna University, under whose valuable guidance it got the shape it has. In fact no words would suffice to express my deep sense of gratitude to him whose sustained encouragement made this study presentable. His role will remain as a source of enduring inspiration to me throughout my life. He is not only a source of inspiration for many (including me) but also an eminent scholar who constantly endeavours to inject a sense of confidence in his students. It is rather a privilege for me to work under the able guidance of Dr. P.V. Krishna Rao.

I wish to place on record my heartfelt gratitude to Professor D. Dakshinamurthy, M.Com., Ph.D., (New York), Head of the Department and Dean, Faculty of Commerce, Nagarjuna University, for providing me an opportunity to do research in the Department of Commerce and for his encouragement, guidance, valuable suggestions provided at every stage for successful completion of this work.
I owe a debt of gratitude to Dr. B.S.R. Sarma, Reader, Department of Chemistry, Dr. V. Rangan, Reader, Department of English, Nagarjuna University and Sri A. Venkateswarlu, M.A., L.L.B., Head of the Department of Economics, Hindu College, Guntur, for their cooperation and encouragement.

I am highly grateful to the MRTP Commission for having provided me with the much needed data and relevant orders/judgements which formed the basis of this study. Further, I wish to thank Miss B. Bhagya Lakshmi, Librarian, the MRTP Commission for providing me the required library facilities at the MRTP Commission, New Delhi.

I am thankful to the authorities of the Nagarjuna University for their continued understanding and help throughout my work. I am thankful to the staff of the Libraries of Nagarjuna University and Sri C.R. Reddy College, Eluru for their cooperation and encouragement.

My sincere thanks are also due to the members of the Faculty of the Department of Commerce, Nagarjuna University for their constant encouragement.

S.R.A & S. College, Kothagudem, for providing me every opportunity to foster and further my research interest.

My wife Smt. K.V. Ratnam, M.A., my daughters, Chy. K.N.V.S. Kumari, and Chy. K. Kalyana Jyotsna deserve my special gratitude for extending unending cooperation, affection and patience during this long period of study. Above all, I will be failing in my duty if I forget to express loving gratitude to my parents for their sincere blessings and best wishes in my pursuits.

(K.P. SASTRY)