ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

From the beginning of time there has been one guiding force, one source of inspiration, one embodiment of everything that exists around us. I bow before almighty, who has given the strength and endurance to pursue this passionate and intellectual journey.

My journey in pursuit of excellence in Human behavior and Performance and attempt to understand their interplay brought me in contact with several brilliant minds from diverse backgrounds, which inspired me to undertake this research work and try answer some of the most intellectually stimulating questions that these humble masters of Humanity and Science put forth before me. It is them that I owe this degree. I take this opportunity to thank every one of them who has directly and indirectly given shape and meaning to this body of research and in the process helped me evolve my path. I stand in humble gratitude to them all.

It is said that ‘when the student is ready, the teacher appears’ and I, for one could not have asked for a better guide and teacher- Dr. R. Goplakrishna, had it not been for his sharp analytical mind, precision questioning, in depth subject knowledge, Unconditional availability, constant support and appropriate guidance, this thesis would not have materialized into a meaningful body of research. I take this opportunity to express my gratitude and sincerely thank him.

I also thank my chairman Dr. Ashok and mentor Dr. M. Sreenivas.
I am indebted to my beloved husband Anup Shekar whose motivation and constant encouragement, made me complete this beautiful journey of knowledge.

A Very heartfelt thanks to my dear sister Prakruthi, my father, my mother and my mother-in-law and father-in-law to have given me all the support and strength to work hard.

My biggest thanks to my daughter Vaishanvi, without her cooperation, understanding and unconditional love, I could not have got the strength to pursue my passion towards research.

My utmost gratitude to my friends Shafi, Ganesh and Surya, who were my anchors in the research project.

My special thanks to the Commissioner of Police of Bangalore City as an organization which gave me permission to carry out this research.

My gratitude to all the participants, for their complete co-operation and availability at various stages of the study. Most importantly, all the participants who’s responses, reactions and application of learning formed the primary data for this research. The true ownership of this study lies with them.

Last, but not the least, I thank my beloved colleagues Rashmi and Vishwanath who have been very encouraging and offered help generously.
