I am really indebted to my beloved daughter Bhadra, who is only one and half year old as she is the person who adjusted most with my research schedule. She made extreme sacrifices, though unknowingly for me as I had to be away from her most of the times during her infancy.

I should be failing in my duty if I do not offer my collective thanks to all those authors from whom I freely quoted.

I also thank Almighty God for helping me complete this thesis.

Finally, I must add that the responsibility for the views expressed and for errors and omissions if any, is entirely mine.
