ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Words cannot be adequate to express one's gratitude to the teachers, colleagues, friends, relatives and well-wishers. Yet I would like to express my heartfelt gratitude to all who render their valuable and generous help in their own ways. I owe due apologies to all those, without whose assistance, I would not have been able to conduct this small piece of study.

The study embodied in this thesis has been carried out under the supervision of Dr. Vijay Kumar Sharma, faculty member of Commerce and Management Studies, Himachal Pradesh University, Shimla. I am highly indebted to him for his unstinted co-operation in the preparation of this work. In spite of his pre-occupations and engagements, he has spared his precious time, evinced keen interest and meticulous care at every stage of my study. His able guidance, inspiration, encouragement and support helped me a lot during the critical periods of my study. I owe him much more than I can render in words.

I wish to express my deep sense of core gratitude and indebtedness to all faculty members of Department of Commerce and Management Studies, Himachal Pradesh University, Shimla, who have been kind enough to go through the entire work by way of giving fruitful suggestions.

I should render my profound respect and eternal gratitude to Dr. Ashok Kumar Sharma, (Professor of Production Economics) at CSK HPKV, Palampur. I had several round of discussions with him.

I also express my gratitude to Dr. S.K. Sharma (Professor of Econometrics) at CSK HPKV, Palampur, for his valuable suggestions with regard to the selection and use of statistical tools and techniques for the purpose of analysis.

I also extend my sincere thanks to all the other professors who are not named but from whom I received their advice at different stages of this work. I also wish to express my gratitude to the Administrative staff of the Department of Commerce and Management Studies who helped at supported me at various stages of my study. I am thankful for providing the necessary information for the present work, which became available because of library staff co-operation of H.P. University, Shimla.

I am highly thankful to the library staff of Delhi School of Economics, Delhi, Indian Banks Association, Mumbai and National Institute of Bank Management (NIBM), Pune for allowing me to avail the library facility during the course of this work.

I acknowledge my deep sense of gratitude to Sh. R.P. Thakur (Principal RGM Government Degree College Joginder Nagar), Sh.Sunil Pathak (Assistant Professor of Botany), and Sh.J.P. Sharma (Associate Professor of Chemistry) who helped me a lot during my work.

Many friends, relatives and colleagues of mine have generously extended their help and support to enable me to carry out this work. In particular, I would like to thank my friends Dr.H.L. Sharma, Associate Professor of Economics at Government P.G.College Bilaspur and Miss Surrena Sharma, Associate Professor of Commerce at Government Degree College Mandi.

Finally, I am extremely thankful to my maternal mother, Smt. Lajja Vaidya, father, Sh.Kishan Chand, mother, Smt. Damyanti Devi and elder brother, Sh.Kapil Thakur for having inconvenience caused during the preparation of this work and particularly for their moral support at difficult times of my study. Their patience, encouragement and co-operation enabled me to devote myself to complete this work even at the cost of my domestic responsibilities.
