When I was a child, I was taught to thank the Almighty and graciously remember all those who ever helped me. Today I recall that precious childhood lesson and take this opportunity to thank God and all those people who have helped me in their unique ways to give this work its present form. Words fail to express my gratitude I feel for my mentor and research guide Prof. Mita Biswas who despite knowing my flaws kept up her confidence in me. Her guidance, patience, love and urge for perfection have made it possible for this research to be undertaken. I shall always fondly cherish her affectionate and caring ways.

Indebted I am to my parents whose consistent support, guidance and love have made this dream come true. They have been my role models and have always inspired me to aspire for the best. Their love, concern and motivation shall remain unmatched. My younger brother deserves a special mention and thanks. He believed in me like a friend, helped me like an elder and accompanied me to various places related to this study. Till date, my Grand Mother has been a source of inspiration for me and helped me to carry on this work bravely whenever I have felt disheartened.

An extra pinch of thanks is due to my In laws and my extended family for believing in me and appreciating my little efforts. My mother in law and Father in law have always felt proud of this achievement and understood its value. Their cooperation and love in all possible forms have given me an impetus to pursue this work optimistically. Special thanks due to my brother in law who has stood by me and helped me in every field related to this work ever since I embarked this upon journey.

I am thankful to a lot of Colleagues, especially Ms. Gauri Chakraborty, she is an expert in Film and Media studies. Her valuable inputs, friendly advices and critical comments have helped me to judge the movies in a finer, more technical manner. My thanks is due towards all those students and friends who generously gave me their opinions and valuable inputs at various stages of this work.

A heartfelt thanks to the Libraries of HPU, DU, PU, JIAS, Amity University, The British Council, The American Council and many other colleges who generously allowed me to use their resources.

Last but not the least my best friend and now my husband deserves a thank you note. He saw the dream in my eyes and walked with me to make it come true. His flawless technical skills have been used in formatting the entire thesis, his guidance, reassurance, love and never ending togetherness has made this journey a little easier and a lot more interesting.
