ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

Research is a systemized effort to gain knowledge and enhance experience. This however is not possible without the support, guidance and supervision of various persons. The completion of this work is also the outcome of the constant guidance and co-operation received from many in the course of study. I shall be indebted throughout life for their help and few words of acknowledgement would surely not be enough. However, as an expression of gratitude to all those who directly or indirectly extended their help to me, I am trying to pin down few lines.

First and foremost, I bow before the divine power, the Almighty, who endowed me with His endless blessings and strength to accomplish the present work without any obstacle and helping me during every bit of this assigned task and making its completion a memorable experience.

I fall short of words in expressing immense gratitude for my idol and revered Supervisor, Dr. Aditya Pratap Singh, Associate Professor, Department of Law, RML National Law University, Lucknow for being my dynamic guide and caring mentor. This work is the result of his tireless and ever-stimulating guidance. His constant guidance, encouragement and keen personal interest inspired me to work more diligently and efficiently. I am deeply indebted to him for his comments on each chapter which led me to analyze the problem and solution in better way. He clarified the legal concepts related with my research work in a matchless way which became very useful for me. This work in the present form has become possible with his critical examination, innovative approach and encouraging words.

I am also much indebted to Hon'ble Vice Chancellor Prof. (Dr.) Gurdip Singh for providing me an opportunity to go through the present topic. His continuous support & guidance towards Ph.D. programme and research in the university is highly appreciable. His dynamic approach and expertise in field of law and keen interest towards research has been an advantage for all of us and I am personally very touched for his inspiration, encouragement and co-operation in this academic pursuit.

I feel deep pleasure to put on records my thanks to Dr. A.K. Tiwari, Head of Department & Ph.D. Coordinator, who has been instrumental behind Ph.D. programme in the university. His continuous support, guidance and supervision of Ph.D. scholars is the backbone of research programme in the university.

I am also much obliged to all the senior faculty members of the university who have always been very kind to give valuable inputs. I would like to thank Dr. K.A. Pandey, Dr. Sanjay Singh for their valuable teachings during course work and for their continuous guidance and encouragements.

I would also like to thank Dr. Manish Singh, my teacher and philosophical mentor for his time to time encouragement and suggestions. His all time helping nature is the best part of his academic persona.

The most special indebtedness, heartfelt thankfulness and gratitude go to my father Shri. Agmaanuze Maurya & mother, Smt. Gyan Pati Devi. They have taught me that there are no shady trees in the path of success and there is no substitute of hard work. I owe my existence and survival to them.

I am also obliged to acknowledge the University administration specially Dr. Manish Bajpai, Deputy Librarian for providing a wonderful library which is a storehouse of information and also for providing invaluable electronic resources without which no such research was ever possible. The RMLNLU Library and all the employees in the Library also deserve a lot of thanks for being so helpful.

Special thanks are also given to my friends specially Kaushlendra & Devendra. Their encouragement and help made me feel confident to fulfill my work and to overcome every difficulty I encountered. At every stage of my research, they helped me in all way, and suggested possible improvements.

In the last I would like to thank Ishi who has been motivational at every stage of the research. It shall always fall short of words to mention her perennial support and encouragement.
