Every mission needs a spirit of dedication and hard work but more than anything else, it needs proper guidance, working atmosphere and most importantly support from others. This thesis is a result of prayers, efforts, blessing of many and sacrificial love of my family and friends. It is not easy to find words to express sincerest gratitude and thanks from the core of one’s heart on a single page. But still I would like to put on record my indebtedness to all those great personalities and scholars without whose scholarly guidance, co-operation and help, this dissertation of mine would not have been able to see the light of the day.

First of all I offer salutation to the Almighty God for everything not possible to put down in words. He blessed me with that I am in a position to work and look forward for more opportunities coming my way.

It is my great privilege and earnest duty to express my deep sense of gratitude to my revered guide Dr. R.S. Arora, Professor, Department of Commerce, Punjabi University, Patiala under whose constant encouragement, support and invaluable suggestion throughout the research work have enabled me to give final shape to this thesis. He allowed me every access to him even at odd hours and brushed aside with one sweep of his genius, the tanglewood of my most insurmountable difficulties. The entire study bears the stamp of his scholarly guidance. In fact, working under his supervision is a matter of pride. I could not have imagined having a better advisor and mentor for my Ph.D. study.
