ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

First of all I would like to thank Lord Almighty to be my moral support throughout the completion of my research work and to show me this wonderful day.

I am profoundly grateful to Prof. T. Narayana, Head of the Dept., English, Andhra University, and my research director for his efficient guidance, advise, constant co-operation, affection and moral support throughout my research, which many a times recouped my energy in times of vexation and depression.

I am very grateful to Prof. Nirupa Rani, Prof. Prasannasree, Prof. Parvathi, Prof. Manjula Davidson, Prof. Jayapra for giving me their valuable suggestions as and when required and for being my moral support all the times.

I am highly thankful to the Library staff of Dr. V.S. Krishna Memorial Library, Andhra University, Waltair who were always polite and co-operative at any time of the day whenever I visited the library.

I am indebted to my beloved father (Late) Sri. K. Krishna Rao, IAF, my mother Mrs. K.Kameswari, my husband Vellanki Narasimha Murthy who has always been a constant support to me and a guiding force behind my academic career and a special token of thanks to my lovely daughter Vellangi Vani who was always with me whenever I needed her.

The author has also a special consideration for her mother-in-law V. Ambujakshi and father-in-law V. Appa Rao for their constant affection, patience and understanding.

The author is highly thankful to her maternal uncle Sri. Tripurana Bhaskar Rao, who was always a beacon of light in her life.

The author is quiet thankful to Dr. P. Krishna Kishore, who was always positive and encouraging during the completion of the thesis.

Finally, the author wishes to place on record her appreciation to all her colleagues, friends and well-wishers for their love and support during all times.

Rao Pramila Krishna