ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Ever since I took up a study in July 1979 on "Women in Orissa Politics" for my M.Phil dissertation, I have been interested in "women's studies" in general and "women's political socialization" in particular. It is, therefore, in the fitness of things that I decided to enlarge the area of my M.Phil research into a proper doctoral thesis on "Socio-Political Background of Women in Orissa Politics". Incidentally, my project is the first of its kind — a lot remains unexplored. In all humility, I only guess and hope that more scholars will take on further studies in my field.

In organising my materials and giving them a shape, my supervisor Dr C.N. Venugopal has been of immense help and source of great inspiration. I run short of words to express my gratitude to him. To Mrs Venugopal, I am indebted in a very special way — it was her concern and love that saw me through difficult times.

I take this opportunity to thank Dr T.K. Commen (Chairman), Dr R.K. Jain and Dr Nimal Singh of the Centre for their valuable suggestions. I will not forget Dr A.K. Gupta who offered timely help in processing my statistics.
In this connection, I fondly remember my parents without whom I could not have undertaken this work. I am thankful to Mr N.M. Pati who initiated me to work on this project. His constant inspiration and concern was of great help.

Mr Sadhan Farida (of Ravenshaw College, Cuttack) contributed substantially to the success of my project. He helped me to finish my work in time. I will always remember this and remain grateful.
