Contents

Acknowledgement
Preface

CHAPTER I
CONTEXTUALIZING THE STUDY
1.1 Introduction
1.2 Identity and Change
1.3 Tribe: What and Who?
1.4 Emergence and Crystallization of Tribal Identity
1.5 The colonial Period
1.6 The period of Freedom Struggle
1.7 Post-Independent Nation Building Period
1.8 International Labour Organization: 'Indigenous People'
1.9 Statement of the Problem
1.10 Objectives
1.11 Methodology
1.12 Chapter Overview

CHAPTER II
UNIVERSE OF THE STUDY: MAROU VILLAGE
(Geographical and Socio-economic Settings)
2.1 The village: Marou
2.2 Physical Setting
2.3 Marou Village: Origin and History
2.4 Population
2.5 Economy
2.6 Income

2.7 Socio-Cultural Setting

CHAPTER III
THE IDEOLOGY OF TRIBE: LAND AND Egalitarianism
(Some Methodological Issues)

3.1 Land-Man Relationship in Marou Village

3.2 Land Ownership and Land Use Pattern in Marou Village

3.3 The Patriarchal Conception of Land and Status of Women in Marou Village

3.4 The Pukhreila

3.5 Conclusion

CHAPTER IV
TRIBAL IDENTITY: TRADITION AND CHANGE

4.1 Elite

4.2 The Middle Class

4.3 Contextualizing the study

4.4 Tribal Policy in Postcolonial India

4.5 Locating the middle class in Marou Village

4.6 Middle Class: Emergence and Impact

4.7 Inventing Traditions: Middle Class as Modern Myth Makers

4.8 Conclusion

CHAPTER V
DYNAMICS OF CHANGE AND NEGOTIATION

5.1 The Hills-Plains Intercourse in Manipur

5.2 Locating the role of middle class in Marou village

5.3 Locating the Youth in a Changing Environment

5.4 Growing up in Marou Village
CONCLUSION  163 - 173

BIBLIOGRAPHY  174 - 182

APPENDIX