Acknowledgement

My sincere regards and heartfelt gratitude to Prof. Anand Kumar for all of his guidance and support, and the patience by which he has shared my dilemmas at every step in last six years of my life. He has not only guided and helped me in academic and intellectual pursuits but has introduced me to a totally new world, which was unknown to me before coming to JNU.

I am thankful to Shri Anupam Mishra and Shri Rajendra Singh who were a constant source of inspiration during last four years of this work. I will always be grateful to Dr. Rakesh Thakur who introduced me to the world of sociology and has provided brotherly warmth to excel in it. I am grateful to Karan Thapar for his support which made this work possible. Poonamji has been a constant source of warmth and affection in all these years at JNU, without which it would have been a very difficult pursuit.

I want to offer my gratitude to all the Institutions I have attended as a student till now, which have contributed in my development as a human being. I am grateful to all my teachers, specially my teachers at the Jawaharlal Nehru University who have provided critical inputs in completion of this research. I am also thankful to all the persons who have given me their precious time for the detailed interviews, talks and insights for this research during last few years. I thank all the staff of the libraries at JNU, Rajasthan University, Rajasthan Patrika, Nehru Memorial Library, Sahitya Akadmi and IIMC. Kanupriya at Jal Bhagirathi Foundation and Sukumar Verma at Rajasthan Patrika have been very supportive during the field work for this research. I am thankful to them along with their organisations.

I don’t want to use the word ‘thanks’ for my friends as it’s a formal expression. Their criticism, love and warmth have been a constant source of strength in completing this work. Some of them deserve a special mention here – Arvindji, Manish and Kusum, Tina and Sonu, Alankar, Bago Sir, Alokji, Rahman, Sarbeswar, Pradeep, Jagdev, Saheli, Saroj, Arpita, Gulam, Ram, Rakesh, Kanihar, Bhakhar, Nadeem and Manto. There are many of my dear friends whose names are missing here, but not from my heart.

I am indebted for the sincere efforts put by Ashish, Pallavi, Rajan, Sarada and JP in helping me to prepare the final draft. It wouldn’t have been possible to complete it on time without them being on my sides, literally. I sincerely acknowledge their efforts.

Words fall short to describe the love, motivation and ‘sambal’ my parents and all of my family has given me to pursue this Ph. D. They have always supported my just and unjust endeavours in life with their incessant faith in me. I really don’t have the words to express my feelings towards them.

I owe all the errors of this work and my sister Sheelu shares all the credit, as she always has been.
