ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge my sincere gratitude to a number of people who directly or indirectly lent me a helping hand through these years. This thesis would not have been possible without the devoted guidance and continuous encouragement of my supervisor Dr. Ummu Salma Bava. Your patience, understanding, painstaking correction and insightful discussions and enduring support were invaluable and indispensable to the realisation of my project. Thank you Ma'am.

A special mention to Prof. B. Vivekanandan for being there whenever I was in doubt. My appreciation to Prof. R.K. Jain and all the other teachers and staff members of the Centre of European Studies for the stimulating lectures, seminars and support they have given to me over the last five years. This work would not have seen the light of the day had it not for the devoted support and unending love of my mother, Mrs. Icylda Kharsyntiew, who stood beside me, making me feel safe and abundant. To all my sisters, brothers and everyone at home for their love and prayers. To my uncle, Sawbor Kharsyntiew, without whose support I would not have reached this far.

As Always, the journey to this stage has been long, arduous and a personal revelation at the same time. In the process a long list of familiar faces have always been there to offer and insist on any kind of help. To Gean whose enduring support meant a lot to me; to Aien without whose presence and patience this thesis would not have been completed; to Robz (as always) and Dhanz for sticking with me throughout the last four years; to Ramvir and Jaso for editing small yet important details of my thesis; Arun for being my transporter; to Pamyo, Janet, Eff, Garima, Theri, Stan, Satya, Sam, Tashi, Achang and Pynskhem for all the madness and encouragements. I'm ever thankful to Jayshree, Omair, Gaganpavan, the Yuhasingham family, Fardeen, Karen Davids, Samantha, Lorna and Padraigh for making me feel at home during my stay in London, Manchester and Durham.

I also wish to express my heartfelt gratitude to the Government of Meghalaya and the Indian Council for Social Science Research, New Delhi, for the Research and Doctoral Fellowship respectively. I am grateful to the Staff of JNU Central Library, IDSA, Ministry of External Affairs, the EC Delegation in India, British Council Library, American Central Library, the London School of Economics and British Library (London) for helping me in every possible way.

New Delhi, 27 July 2007.
