Table of Contents

Acknowledgements i-ii
Abbreviations iii-iv
List of Tables v
Preface vi-viii

CHAPTER I 1-45

Introduction

I Introduction

II Socio-economic development in Egypt and India: A historical overview

III Continuity and Change in the Globalisation Debates iii 1. Social development and Globalisation iii 2. Changing development strategy: Social Development and Social Capital

IV Organisation of the Study iv 1. Objectives of the Study iv 2. Theoretical Framework iv 3. Survey of Literature iv 4. Methodology iv 5. Hypotheses iv 6. Chapterisation

V Conclusion

CHAPTER II 46-85

Globalisation and Social Development: A Conceptual Framework

I Introduction
   i 1. State, structural adjustment and social development i 2. Understanding social development in the era of globalisation

II Globalisation and development: Different dimensions ii 1. Economic dimensions.
   ii 2. Political dimensions.
   ii 3. Cultural dimensions.
   ii 4. Social dimension
CHAPTER III

State and Patterns of Globalisation: Egypt and India

I Introduction

i 1. Origin and development of modern state system: A historical overview i 2. State formation and developing countries

II Nature of state sovereignty ii 1. Globalisation and political liberalisation

III Role of state in social sector: Continuity and change

iii 1. Beyond SAP: Washington Consensus to Post Washington Consensus iii 2. The emerging patterns in Social Development: Social capital and participation iii 3. State structure, social development and globalisation

IV Conclusion

CHAPTER IV

Structural Adjustment Institutional Changes and Social Development in Egypt and India

I Introduction

II Aspects of structural adjustment and institutional changes ii 1. Development of private market and free trade ii 2. Social fund and community development III Social sector in Egypt and India in the liberalisation period: A Comparative overview

iii 1. Education 1.1. Literacy rate
   1.1. 1. rural-urban disparities in education
   1.1. 2. Enrolment rate 1.2. Education expenditure

iii 2. Health
   2.1. Health expenditure
   2.2. Infant mortality rate
   2.3. Life expectancy

iii 3. Poverty

iii 4. Employment

iii 5. Income distribution

IV Subsidies, social development and reforms

V Conclusion

CHAPTER V

Obstacles and policy imperatives of reform: Egypt and India

I Introduction

II Liberalisation and obstacles to state intervention in social development ii 1. Poor and the institutions of the state ii 2. Obstacles and policy imperatives in poverty management ii 3. Problems and limitations of social security nets ii 4. Limitations in labour and employment policies ii 5. The challenge of distributional inequality ii 6. Social capital and its problems ii 7. Gender disparities in development

III From state to non-state actors

IV Conclusion

CHAPTER VI

Conclusion

References

Appendices