ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My thanks are due to a number of people who helped me in various ways with the writing of this thesis. Firstly I am grateful to my supervisor Dr. Sanjay Pandey for all his support. He is not just a supervisor but a close friend. Apart from academic guidance he always gave moral support which helped in completing this work. In all the difficult moments when I was emotionally weak or financially unstable he went out of the way to offer me all possible help. Sir, thank you very much.

My sincere thanks to Dr. Amit Prakash (Associate Professor, Centre for the Study of Law and Governance) who actually explained to me what governance is all about. Being a student of Area Studies there were limits to my understanding of governance and state issues from the perspective of comparative politics. It was because of his guidance that I could work on this subject.

My former supervisor Professor Nirmala Joshi has always been supportive. In fact she inspired me to select a different and challenging topic for investigation. She always stood by me whenever I sought her help. I am thankful to her.

I am extremely thankful to Dr. Rajan Kumar for his valuable suggestions about the theoretical aspects of democratization and research model. Dr. Rajan’s friendly nature was always a source of inspiration for me. He motivated me to choose academics as a profession. Dr. Arun Mohanty helped me in understanding the working of Russian bureaucracy and Russian economic revival. I heavily relied upon their expertise on these areas.

Various chapters were read and commented upon by my other friends. I am extremely thankful to my friend Ritambhara who helped me in developing the main argument of the thesis. Her writing skills helped me in overcoming my own language deficiencies. She always tolerated my anger and irritations while discussing and suggesting improvements in the chapters. I was assisted by Mr. Sanjeev Srivastava in the chapter on institutions. I also express my thanks to my close friends Govind Kumar Inakhiya, Saroj Rani, Shradha and Shailza for their friendly company whenever I felt depressed. I was always supported by my former roommates Rajneesh Kumar Gupta and Rishabh during this work.

During my field work in Moscow, I received help and assistance from the Carnegie Centre for International Peace, Moscow centre and my friends Peter and Vika. I also acknowledge the help I got from the scholars especially Roma and Mrs. Guzel at the Institute for Asian and African Studies, the Moscow State University, Moscow.

I am thankful to the faculty members of SIS especially Professor Anuradha Chenoy, Professor Ajay Patnaik, Professor Tulsi Ram, Dr. Gulshan Sachdeva and Dr. Phool Badan. I am also indebted to Dr. Bishwanath Thakur.

I was always helped by the office staff Mr. M.M. Handa, Vijay and Gurpreet. They took care of all my documents related formalities without taking much time. It would not have been possible for me to write this thesis without their support. The JNU central library staff was also very kind in providing all necessary journals and books. The resources in the Nehru Memorial Library, British Council Library and the American Cultural Centre were other sources of information, and deserve my gratitude.
