Contents

CHAPTER-1: INTRODUCTION TO INDIAN PHARMACEUTICAL INDUSTRY

1.1 Introduction 1

1.2 Key Characteristics of the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry 2

1.2.1 Persuasive in Matching the Nation's Need 3

1.2.2 Sustainable Development of Drugs 4

1.2.3 Production of High Quality Drugs 5

1.2.4 Experience and Expertise 6

1.2.5 Low Cost of Manufacturing 6

1.2.6 Proficient Research and Development 7

1.3 Indian Pharmaceutical Sector: From Nascent Stage to Maturity 9

1.3.1 Pre-Independence Scenario 10

1.3.2 Post-Independence Scenario 11

1.3.2.1 Phase 1 (1945- Late 1970s) 11

1.3.2.2 Phase 2 (Early 1980s-Early 1990s) 12

1.3.2.3 Phase 3 (Late 1990s – Present) 13

1.4 Dimensions of Pharmaceutical Industry 14

1.4.1 Drug Discovery 14

1.4.2 Drug Development 15

1.5 Key Drivers of the Pharmaceutical Industry 15

1.5.1 Research & Development 15

1.5.2 Domestic Demand 16

1.5.3 Increasing Incomes & Health Care Spending 17

1.5.4 Expiring Patents as an Opportunity for Domestic Generic Companies 17

1.5.5 Emerging Markets 17
1.5.6 M & A: Potential Catalyst 18
1.6 Mechanism of Pharmaceutical Sector 19
1.7 Classification of Pharmaceuticals 20
  1.7.1 Patented Medicines 21
  1.7.2 Generic Medicines 22
  1.7.3 Over the Counter Medicines (OTC) 23
1.8 Therapeutic Categorization of Drugs 23
  1.8.1 Anti-infective 24
  1.8.2 Gastro-Intestinal 24
  1.8.3 Antibiotics 24
  1.8.4 Analgesics 25
1.9 Major Players in the Pharmaceuticals Industry 26
  1.9.1 Major Pharmaceutical Public Sector Undertakings 27
  1.9.2 Top 10 Private Sector Companies (On the basis of Net Sales) in India 28
1.10 Regulatory Framework of Indian Pharmaceutical Industry 28
  1.10.1 The laws and Regulations which affect the Pricing Practices of Drugs are as follows 30
    1.10.1.1 The Drugs Price Control Order (DPCO), 1995 30
    1.10.1.2 Essential Commodities Act, 1955 30
    1.10.1.4 National pricing Policy, 2012 32
1.11 Challenges and Opportunities of the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry 32
  1.11.1 Opportunities 32
    1.11.1.1 Benefits to India from Modernizing the Indian Pharmaceutical Industry 33
    1.11.1.2 Social 34
    1.11.1.3 Economical 34
CHAPTER-2: PRICING STRATEGIES OF INDIAN DRUG INDUSTRY

2.1 Introduction 40
2.2 Economics of Pricing 43
2.3 Price Discrimination 44
2.4 Objectives of Pricing 45
   2.4.1 Profit Maximization 46
   2.4.2 Revenue Maximization 46
   2.4.3 Maximize Quantity 46
   2.4.4 Quality Leadership 46
   2.4.5 Partial Cost Recovery 46
   2.4.6 Survival 47
   2.4.7 Status Quo 47
2.5 Determinants of Pricing 47
   2.5.1 Demand 48
      2.5.1.1 Elasticity of Demand 49
   2.5.2 Supply 50
      2.5.2.1 Elasticity of Supply 51
   2.5.3 Competition Pricing 51
   2.5.4 Price Control Authorities 51
   2.5.5 Research and Development (R&D) 52
   2.5.6 International Standards 53
   2.5.7 Tax Rates 53
   2.5.8 Export/ Import 53
   2.5.9 Customer Paying Capabilities 54
   2.5.10 Intellectual Property Rights 54
2.6 Types of Pricing Strategies
2.6.1 Cost-Based Pricing
2.6.2 Customer-Based Pricing
2.6.3 Competitor-Based Pricing
2.6.1 Cost Based Pricing
2.6.1.1 Cost-Plus ("mark-up") Pricing
2.6.2 Customer-Based Pricing
2.6.2.1 Penetration Pricing
2.6.2.2 Price Skimming
2.6.2.3 Loss Leaders
2.6.2.4 Psychological Pricing
2.6.3 Competitor-Based Pricing
2.6.3.1 Predatory Pricing (Illegal)
2.6.3.2 Economy Pricing
2.6.4 Other Types of Pricing Strategies
2.6.4.1 Product Line Pricing
2.6.4.2 Optional Product Pricing
2.6.4.3 Captive Product Pricing
2.6.4.4 Product Bundle Pricing
2.6.4.5 Promotional Pricing
2.6.4.6 Geographical Pricing
2.6.4.7 Value Pricing
2.7 Stages of Pricing
2.7.1 Stage 1: The Landed Price
2.7.2 Stage 2: The Wholesale Price
2.7.3 Stage 3: Retail Price
2.7.4 Stage 4: The Dispensed Price
2.8 Current Pricing Policy of Indian Drug Industry
References
CHAPTER-3: RESEARCH METHODOLOGY

3.1 Introduction 78
3.2 Objectives of the Study 79
3.3 Scope of the Study 80
   3.3.1 Top Management of Drug Companies 81
   3.3.2 Consumers 82
   3.3.3 Doctors/Physicians 82
   3.3.4 Pharmacists 82
3.4 Review of Literature 83
3.5 Duration of the Study 124
3.6 Research Approach and Research Design 125
3.7 Research Process 125
   3.7.1 Descriptive Statistics 125
   3.7.2 Factor Analysis 126
   3.7.3 Chi-Square Test 126
3.8 Sample Selection and Data Collection 127
   3.8.1 Universe 127
   3.8.2 Sample Design 127
   3.8.3 Sample Size 128
   3.8.4 Sources of Information 129
   3.8.5 Method of Contact 129
3.9 Questionnaire Design 130
3.10 List of Hypotheses 131
3.11 Result Analysis and Interpretation Methodology 132
3.12 Limitations of the Study 132
References 135

CHAPTER-4: DATA ANALYSIS AND INTERPRETATION

4.1 Introduction 141
4.2 Analysis of Data from Questionnaire Made for Company’s Employees

4.2.1 Factor Analysis

4.2.1.1 Reliability of the Instrument
4.2.1.2 Communalities
4.2.1.3 Identification of Factors for Pricing Strategy
4.2.1.4 Total Variance Explained
4.2.1.5 Scree Plot
4.2.1.6 Rotated Component (Factor) Matrix
4.2.1.7 The Extracted Six Components
4.2.1.8 Extracted Six Components are as follows

4.2.2 Hypotheses Testing through Chi-Square Test

4.2.2.1 Impact of Promotional Strategies on Pricing Strategies of Indian Drug Industry
4.2.2.2 Role of Price Regulating Government Bodies in Pricing Strategies of Indian Drug Companies
4.2.2.3 Impact of Open Market Forces on Pricing Strategies of Indian Drug Industry
4.2.2.4 Impact of Influential Factors on Pricing Strategies of Public and Private Sector Companies
4.2.2.5 Impact of Investment Strategies on Pricing Strategies of Indian Drug Industry

4.3 Analysis of Data Collected from Annual Reports of the Public and Private Sector Companies

4.3.1 Analysis of Data Collected from Annual Reports of Public Sector Units
4.3.1.1 Rajasthan Drugs and Pharmaceuticals Limited (RDPL) 167
4.3.1.2 Bengal Chemicals and Pharmaceuticals Limited (BCPL) 168

4.3.2 Analysis of Data Collected from Annual Reports of Private Sector Units 169
4.3.2.1 Total R&D Expenditure by Top 10 private Sector Companies of Indian Drug Industry 170
4.3.2.2 Trends of Invested Percentage of Sales Promotion and R&D against their respective Net Sales/Income of Top 10 Companies 171

4.4 Analysis of Data from Questionnaire Designed for the Consumers, Doctors and Chemists 175
4.4.1 Frequency Table 176
4.4.2 Preference of Branded Drugs 177
4.4.3 Consumer Prefers to take Drugs from Renowned Doctors 178
4.4.4 Consumer Prefers High Price Branded Drugs 178
4.4.5 High Price Branded Drugs Deliver High Value 179
4.4.6 Reason of High Price of Drugs is More Investment in Promotional Practices 180
4.4.7 Consumer Prefers Branded Drugs Due to their Brand Name 181
4.4.8 Consumer Prefers Branded Drugs Due to their Awareness 181

References 183
CHAPTER-5: FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS, SUGGESTIONS
AND RECOMMENDATIONS 185-201

5.1 Introduction 185
5.2 List of Hypotheses 186
5.3 Findings Drawn from Annual Reports of Public Sector Units 187
5.4 Findings Drawn from Annual Reports of Private Sector Units 188
5.5 Major Findings Drawn from Collected Data from Questionnaire Designed for Company’s Employees 190
  5.5.1 Impact of Influential Factors on Pricing Strategies of Public and Private Sector Companies 190
  5.5.2 Impact of Open Market forces on Pricing Strategies of Indian Drug Industry 191
  5.5.3 Impact of Investment Strategies on Pricing Strategies of Indian Drug Industry 192
  5.5.4 Role of Price Regulating Government Bodies in Pricing Strategies of Indian Drug Companies 193
  5.5.5 Impact of Promotional Strategies on Pricing Strategies of Indian Drug Industry 193

BIBLIOGRAPHY 202-218

APPENDICES 219-249

Appendix-I 219
Appendix-II 226
Appendix-III 236
Appendix-IV 244