CONTENTS

PAGE NO.

Acknowledgements I-XII
Abstract XV-XIX
List of Tables XIX
List of Figures XIX-XXI
List of Graphs XXI
List of Appendices

CHAPTER-I INTRODUCTION 1-24
1.1 Concepts of Employment and Unemployment 2
1.2 Unemployment in India 5
1.3 Socio-Psychological Dimensions of Unemployment 9
1.4 Theoretical Frameworks 13
1.5 Significance of the Study 20
1.6 The Model Proposed for the Study. 21

CHAPTER-II REVIEW OF LITERATURE 25-69
2.1 What Unemployment does to People ? 25
2.2 How do Experiences of Unemployment vary ? 38
2.3 Why People Suffer Unemployment ? 44
2.4 How Peoples’ Attributions of Unemployment Vary ? 52
2.5 Covariates of Alienation and Locus of Control 54
2.6 Summary and Focus of the Present Study. 62

CHAPTER-III METHODOLOGY 70-109
3.1 Problem Statement 70
3.2 Assumptions 70
3.3 Objectives 75
3.4 Hypotheses 76
3.5 Sampling 76
3.6 Research Design 79
3.7 Variables 80
3.8 Tools 83
3.9 Pretesting of the Scales 90
3.10 Organization of the Final Study 107
3.11 Analysis 108

CHAPTER-IV RESULTS 110-202
4.1 Factor Analysis of Scales of Perceptions and Attributions of Unemployment 110
4.2 Differences on Personal and Social Variables 123
4.3 Analysis of Variance 128
4.4 Correlational Analysis 160
4.5 Regression Analysis 193
CHAPTER-V

DISCUSSION

5.1 Effects of Context, Course and Gender on Perceptions and Attributions of Unemployment 203

5.2 Effects of Context, Course and Gender on Alienation and Locus of Control 220

5.3 Differences in Personal and Social Characteristics 225

5.4 Dependence of Perceptions of Unemployment on Attributions of Unemployment. 227

5.5 Interdependence among Social-Psychological Variables 232

5.6 Socio-Psychological Correlates of Perceptions and Attributions of Unemployment 236

CHAPTER-VI

SUMMARY, CONCLUSIONS, IMPLICATIONS, LIMITATIONS AND FUTURE DIRECTIONS. 243-263

6.1 Summary 243

6.2 Conclusions 253

6.3 Implications 255

6.4 Limitations 260

6.5 Future Directions 261

BIBLIOGRAPHY 264-289

APPENDICES 290-309