Acknowledgements

I have great pleasure in expressing my grateful thanks to a number of persons but for whose guidance, cooperation and encouragement the present thesis would not have been completed. First of all I would like to thank prof. R. N. Kulhalli, Former Reader, Department of Sociology, University of Pune. It was because of his encouragement and support I registered for Ph.D. in 1993 under him. The topic was chosen in consultation with him and some preliminary exploratory work was done under his guidance. After his retirement in November 1994, he expressed a desire to withdraw from academic activities. In deference to his wish, I was transferred to Dr. Ratna Rao, HOD sociology, St. Meera’s College, Pune, under whom I had begin my teaching career in 1984-85. Prof. R. N. Kulhalli, took interest in my work even subsequent to his retirement. On several occasions I consulted him and he was kind enough to give his precious time. I have no words to express my thanks to Dr. Ratna Rao, who has always provided emotional support and encouragement and guided me during the critical period. In spite of her busy schedule at St. Mira’s College, she has always found time for this project.

My colleagues at Tilak Maharashtra Vidyapeeth have been extremely supportive in sharing my Vidyapeeth work. They also helped me in data collection and always encouraged me to pursue the work to it’s logical end! I am grateful to our former co-ordinator prof. H. B. Deshpande for his kind help and co-operation. I am also thankful to our acting co-ordinator prof. Vikas Deshpande for his help. Our present Vice Chancellor Dr. H. B. Adyantaya’s practical advice on the importance of completing one’s doctoral work has stood me in good stead. By enquiring often about the stage of progress of the thesis, Dr. Kolhe helped to speed up the work. Our Librarian Mrs. Revati Deshmukh and Library staff of T.M.V. were undeniably a big help.

Special thanks to Smt. Meenakshi Trivedi of National Information Centre, S.N.D.T. University, for providing bibliographical service and photocopies of articles.

Mrs. Vidya Dongare of Vedic Sanshodhan Mandal made available rare references. Thanks to all my friends in Vedic Sanshodhan Mandal who enthusiastically helped in this work.

I am also grateful to Shri. V. L. Manjul, Librarian and the Library staff of Bhandarkar Institute of Oriental Research for their timely help. I must also thank the Library staff of Jaykar
Library, University of Pune, Gokhale Institute, Decan College, S.N.D.T. College and ‘Alochana’ Centre for Documentation and Research for their co-operation.

In the course of this long research journey I had occasion to meet and consult the various staff members of the University. They were kind enough to help me lot. I take this opportunity to thank Prof. Sujata Patel, Prof. S. M. Dahiwale. Dr. Sunalini Sattur, Dr. Swati Shirwadkar, Dr. Vidyut Bhagwat, Dr. Sharmila Rege and Swati Dyahadory. Mrs. Menka Ramdas and Shri. Mahendra Pawar of the Departmental Library made available important references. The administrative staff of the Department has helped me in numerous ways, so, I thank Mrs. Arundhati Agarkar, Sadhana Kulkarni and Sandhya Hande.

I also express my thanks to Smt. Raginitai Pundlik for her giving me Prof. Pundlik’s doctoral thesis.

I also express my gratitude to Mrs. Meena Parkhi for familiarising me with the use of computer in social research and to Shri. Hemant Deshpande who, in spite of his busy schedule helped me lot while analysing data on computer. I must also mention Kedar Kakde, Anita, Rajeshwari and Aparna for their help in Computer typing.

Altab Mulla was patience personified all through the tedious typing and checking work. It was also because of his sincerity and hard work that the typing work could be completed in record time. Shri. Gajanan Joshi and Pradeep Kulkarni also rendered invaluable help while typing the schedules.

I am also grateful to my respondents who willingly and patiently filled the questionnaires and keenly enquired about the thesis from time to time and six eminent women in Pune for their detailed and informative interviews.

I am deeply indebted to my parents, particularly my mother, who have always inspired, encouraged, supported and guided me on the path of life. I am grateful to my uncle, brothers, sister-in-law and nieces, Isha and Rujuta, to all my relatives and friends for their interest in my research work and their constant encouragement which spurred me to complete this work.

Last but not the least, I acknowledge with a deep sense of gratitude and appreciation the long hours which Dr. A. Ramanama, my Professor at Pune University patiently and painstakingly spared for me in my hour of need.

Madhavi Renavikar

II