Acknowledgement

I received support and encouragement from a number of people during the development and completion of this study. I am sincerely grateful to all of them.

I am deeply indebted to my supervisor, Prof. Suhas Palshikar, for his guidance. His thought provoking and pointed questions and suggestions have gone a long way towards improving upon the earlier draft of this thesis. His comments impelled me to work harder and dig deeper into the subject. His feedback has helped immensely in improving the quality of this study.

I am grateful to the Indian Council of Social Science Research (ICSSR) for providing me the National Doctoral Fellowship for two years. This fellowship enabled me to work continuously on my research work for two years. It was possible to complete my field work during this period. Special thanks are due to the management of D. D. Shinde Sarkar College, Kolhapur where I teach, especially to late Dr. Abasaheb Shinde, the former President of our institute, who graciously allowed me to keep my job (on lien) while enjoying the ICSSR Fellowship. I also thank Dr. H. M. Bhalariao, the ex-Principal of our college for his encouragement and kind cooperation. I thank the present President of our institute, Mr. Charudatta Shinde, the former Principal of our college Dr. V. S. Powar, the present in-charge Principal Mr. D. N. Desai and my Head of the Department Dr. A. S. Kanegaonkar for encouraging and supporting me in pursuing this study. In fact, I always received a very warm and familial backing from all the teaching and non-teaching staff in my college. I specially thank some of my colleagues in the teaching faculty for their support and encouragement. They include Mr. A. B. Kawade, Dr. R. Y. Mane, Dr. Rasool Korbu, Mr. Kailash Ambulgekar, Dr. A. B. Patil, Ms. Kalpana Mehta and Dr. U. R. Sanyal.

I wish to thank the entire teaching faculty at the Department of Politics and Public Administration, University of Pune. Prof. Yashwant Sumant, Prof. Rajeshwari Deshpande and Dr. Harsha Jagtap not only constantly encouraged me to complete my work but also spared their valuable time to discuss various issues related with my study. Informal discussions with Mr. Abhay Datar, Mr. Vivek Ghotale, Mr. Somanth Gholwe, Mr. Kedar Deshmukh and Ms. Chitra Lele have helped in sharpening a number of ideas on the subject. I thank them all for the intellectual companionship. I sincerely thank the non-teaching staff at the department for their cooperation.

I express my deep gratitude to all the leaders and activists of the OBC movement; retired bureaucrats, academicians and journalists in Maharashtra, Tamil Nadu and Uttar Pradesh for sparing their valuable time and sharing their experiences and thoughts on the subject.

There are a number of people at the professional and personal level, who helped me in completing this project. I want to thank Prof. Yogendra Yadav, Centre for the Study of Developing Societies (CSDS), New Delhi for making incisive comments on my project early on which helped me a lot in shaping the study. I also thank Mr. Sanjay Kumar of the CSDS for giving access to the National Election Studies (NES) data from the data bank of the centre. I also wish to thank Dr. Ashok Chausalkar, Department of Political Science, Shivaji University, Kolhapur for his insightful and thought-provoking comments and suggestions. Thanks are also due to Dr. Gopal Guru, Centre for Political Studies, Jawaharlal Nehru University (JNU), Delhi for his support and encouragement. Mr. Datta Desai, Academy of the Social and Political Studies, Pune and Ms. Vinaya Malati Hari, Bharat Gyan Vigyan Samuday (BGVS) suggested many contacts in Uttar Pradesh and Tamil Nadu, which proved helpful for my research. I thank them both. Mr. Ranjeeb and Mr. Nasirudding Khan, senior journalists, the Hindustan in Lucknow and Mr. Arvind Kumar helped a lot in identifying and contacting the political leaders, activists and academicians in Lucknow. In Chennai, Prof. G. Koteswara Prasad, Department of Politics, University of Madras; Mr. Ramakrishnan, senior journalist with the Hindu and Ms. Meena Kandasamy helped a lot in locating and finding the OBC leaders and activists in Chennai. In Maharashtra, Dr. Prakash Pawar, Dr. Nitin Birmal, Mr. Balaji Devarjankar, Mr. Sangharatna Sonavane, Mr. Anand Kasture and Ms. Arpita Kulkarni provided much needed help in getting the contacts for the interviews. I am grateful to my old friends, Dr. Santosh Pawar and Mr. Rahul Bawge for providing me a lot of logistic support in Nagpur. I thank Praful Ketkar for making my stay in Nasik comfortable and enjoyable. Mr. Sanjay Jadhav helped in my fieldwork in Parbhani. My cousin Smita Salunke helped me in acquiring necessary references. Thanks are also due to the Giri Institute of Development Studies, Lucknow; G. B.
Pant Social Science Institute, Allahabad; World University Service (WUS) Centre, Chennai for providing me affordable and comfortable staying facilities in Lucknow, Allahabad and Chennai respectively. I also thank the authorities and staff at the libraries of Giri Institute of Development Studies, Luckow; G. B. Pant Social Science Institute, Allahabad; Nehru Memorial Museum and Library, New Delhi; the Madras Institute of Development Studies, Chennai; Balasaheb Khardekar Library, Shivaji University, Kolhapur; Jaykar Library, Pune University; Library of the Department of Politics and Public Administration, Pune University, and Library of the Gokhale Institute of Politics and Economics, Pune for allowing me to access the references in these libraries.

A number of friends constantly provided their support and encouragement. I specially thank Dr. Rajendra Mohite, Champat Boddewar, Ashok Adsul, Sachin Nanavati, Abhay Kanta, Dr. Divakar Mohanti, Dr. Anagha Tambe, Pandurang Bhoye, Ruturaj Buwa, Bhagyashree Khaire, Shakuntala Bhalerao, Laxman Vanjari, Vyankatesh, Tukaram Jadhav and Mukta Kulkarni. I also thank Sushrut Ravish and Seema Swadi for their help in proofreading of dissertation.

My parents, Sanjeevani Kharat and Ramesh Kharat; and my grandfather Appa Kharat supported me throughout the period of my study. I express my gratitude for everything that they have done for me. My brother, Himanshu Kharat, helped me in many ways that contributed to my work. My in-laws, Hemalata Dixit, Aparna Dixit, Vasanti Patil and Mahendra Patil kept encouraging me in their own ways. I am deeply indebted to my wife, Kalpana, for emotional support and intellectual companionship. She shouldered the major responsibility of managing the domestic chores during the critical period of my work. I thank her for helping me in innumerable ways. I received various kinds of help from a number of people. If this acknowledgement has missed some of the names out, my sincere thanks to all of them.

Date: September, 2011
Place: Pune

Shailendra Ramesh Kharat
(Research Student)
Department of Politics and Public Administration
University of Pune.