ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The present endeavour owes its completion to valuable inputs from a number of persons associated with different stages of the preparations of my dissertation. I express my ardent gratitude to the University Grants Commission for bestowing me the award of Teacher Fellowship along with the opportunity to enjoy two years leave with all financial support.

I have no words to express my gratitude to all the members of the Governing Body, Principal and other officials of Gobardanga Hindu College, P.O. Khantura, Dist. 24 Parganas (N), WB, for their necessary help to avail the Teacher Fellowship and other related matters for my Ph. D. work. The college office and all the esteemed colleagues have relentlessly encouraged me to complete the dissertation. In this regard, Dr. Purba Chattopadhyay, Dr. Kaveri Sarkar, Krishna Guha, Samita Mitra, Sangita Ray, Dr. Subrata Mitra and Dr. Archana Dasgupta deserve special mention. It gives me prodigious pleasures to thank my compassionate supervisor Dr. Rupendra Kumar Chattopadhyay, Head of the Department of Archaeology, University of Calcutta, for his exemplary guidance to accomplish this work.

My association with the Department of Archaeology, the University of Calcutta, has played a pivotal role in the opening and widening up of the archaeological horizon not only related with the area of my topic but also of the Indian archaeology in its entirety. Here, I express my heartiest gratitude to the teachers and the research scholars who familiarized me with numerous facets of Archaeology. I am especially indebted to Dr. Swati Roy, Assistant Professor, Department of Ancient Indian History and Culture, University of Calcutta, for her valuable suggestions and advice, which are indispensable. I am also thankful to Dr.
Kumkum Bandyopadhyay, a postdoctoral fellow of the Centre for Archaeological Survey and Training (CAST), for her precious advice. Subha Majumdar, JRF (UGC), Dipsikha Acharya, URF, Pampa Biswas JRF (UGC) and Bijan Mandal JRF (UGC) of the University of Calcutta and Goutami Bhattacharya, ASI, Delhi, are always in my remembrance for their tireless assistance. The office staff of the Department of Archaeology, CU, has offered me their honest and constant cooperation.

I must acknowledge the National Library, Centre for Archaeological Survey and Training (CAST), the Asiatic Society, State Archives, Government of WB, the National Atlas and the Thematic Mapping Organization (NATMO) and the Central Library of the University of Calcutta for granting me the opportunity to have access to all the academic facilities required for my thesis.

It is an opportunity to express my heartfelt gratitude to all the people associated with my visits at different sites/mounds.

I must express my deep regards to my Ma and Prabir Ghosh along with my sincere appreciation to Pokhraj Ghosh, Sinjinee Sardar, Tarak Roy, Anupam Saha, Chandranath Sengupta, R.P. Bhattacharya and Dinesh Acharya for their lively and spirited encouragement.

Last but not the least, I bow my head with reverence before the grace of the Creator of the Universe and humbly seek blessings for all my future accomplishments.
