ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is a pleasure for me to write this part of my work, because this reminds me the tremendous effort and dedication that goes into this work and also the profound amount of help that I have received from numerous scholars, teachers, friends and individuals. In this regard, I would like to thank and express my deep gratitude to:

- Indian Council of Historical Research (ICHR) for granting me the Junior Research Fellowship (2006-2008), on the basis of which I have conducted the entire field survey; Centre for Archaeological Studies and Training, Eastern India (CASTEI) for providing me the Doctoral grant for a period of two years (2008-2010). Without these financial grants, I would not have dared to proceed with the work. I am extremely thankful to both the Institutions.

- I want to acknowledge with thanks, the help and support I received from Dr. Gautam Sengupta (Director General, ASI). Thank you Sir, for the constant encouragement and your valuable suggestions.

- I want to thank all my teachers in the Department of Archaeology, University of Calcutta especially Dr. Rupendra Kumar Chattopadhyay for his kind permission in allowing me to study the excavated materials of Dihar. I approached him wherever I needed help and he instantly provided me the same, with his valuable suggestions and the relevant books and articles. Dr. Asok Datta helped me to understand the potteries from Moghalmari (West Midnapur) and I am thankful to him in this regard. I owe thanks to Dr. Durga Basu for her help and support. I am very much thankful to Dr. Chitrarekha Gupta for her lectures which transported us to a different world and it is she, who encouraged me to take up a field based topic for Research. I have also received intense help from Dr. Rajat Sanyal. Thanks to him for his valuable comments, constant encouragement and support. I wish to thank Dr. Suchandra Ghosh and Dr. D.R. Das (Department of AIHC, University of Calcutta) for their valuable suggestions.
• I duly acknowledge the help I have received from the officials of Geological Survey of India (GSI), especially Mr. P. Srivastava (Director, PGRS Section) and Mr. Sujit Dasgupta. Thank you for providing me the much needed information. Thanks to all the library officials of GSI.

• I would like to thank Mr. Pratip Mitra for allowing me to study the explored ceramic assemblage of Dihar from the Reserved Collection of the State Directorate of Archaeology.

• I am thankful to my teachers Mr. Basudev Bhatta and Mr. Biswajit Giri (CAD, Jadavpur University) for helping to learn the application of GIS and Remote Sensing.

• Coming to my study area, I have to thank many individuals for their help and cooperation. Though I did not have the luck to meet Sri Manick Lal Singha, but I express my deep gratitude and respect for bringing Bishnupur to the limelight through his thrilling explorations. I am thankful to his son, Sri Pradeep Singha, because he allowed me to see some of the unpublished articles written by his father. I am thankful to Sri Chittaranjan Dasgupta (Secretary, BAJCPB) for allowing me to take the Museum photographs. Thanks to Mr. Tushar Sarkar (Curator, BAJCPB) for his help and support. Thanks to Mr. Subir Nandi for allowing me to stay at his place during my field surveys. This work would not be possible without the unstinted support of Sri Debasish Chatterjee (my local guide). He travelled with me extensively and communicated with the villagers. I would also like to thank all the villagers for their love and cooperation.

• In this attempt, I owe a lot to an individual - she is Dr. Suchira Roychoudhury, Research Fellow, CASTEL. I troubled her a lot, but she always listened to my questions patiently. She was with me since my first reconnaissance survey in Bankura district. She taught me to identify potteries, understand the landscape, and the river dynamics and some other aspects of my work. Thanks to her for everything.
• Thanks to Dr. Sharmi Chakraborty, Kaushik Gangopadhyay and Dr. Pranab Chattopadhyay (Research Fellow, CASTEI) for their valuable suggestions and constant support. Kaushik da has helped me in the theoretical understanding. Mr. Jibanananda Basu and Mr. Raju Misra helped me in the library of CASTEI and I am also thankful to them in this regard. Sutapa Roy (Research Assistant, CASTEI) and Mithu Karmakar (Publication Assistant, CASTEI) helped me in the final formatting of the work. Thanks to them for their help and support. I am also grateful to Dr. Anup Mishra (Rohilkhand University) and Varada Khaladkar (Lecturer, Deccan College, Pune) for their support and valuable comments. I have also received help from Dr. Kumkum Bandopadhyay (Post Doctoral Fellow, CASTEI) and Sharmila Saha (Antiquity Assistant, State Directorate of Archaeology) and I am really thankful to them for their help and important suggestions.

• Oishi Roy, Soumita Chatterjee (PhD scholars) deserves a big Thank You. Thank you for believing in me. I am really lucky to have friends like you. I wish to thank Mr. Abhishek Banerjee (Regional Manager, Volvo) for helping me to realize the importance of ‘perseverance’ in academics.

• Coming to the most vital part of one’s life –Family...! owe a lot to my late mother (Mrs. Mala Chatterjee), who would have been the happiest person to know that her only daughter has conducted a research on her own. Thank you Maa for everything. I always need your blessings. The love and care I received from my father (Mr. Shib Shankar Chatterjee) is unthinkable. He is my greatest strength and whatever I have achieved in life is all due to him. He is the best father in this world. Thank you Baba for believing in me. Thanks to my Dida (Smt. Ira Mukherjee) for being my greatest source of inspiration.

I want to thank my in-laws (Mr. Sanjoy Bhattacharya and Mrs. Sanhita Bhattacharya) for bearing with my long periods of absence from the home and it is only due to their support and trust, that I have completed this work whole heartedly. Thank you Maa and Baba.

I am extremely lucky to have a wonderful person like Mr. Sayan Bhattacharya as my husband. He is my support. I am completely indebted to him for his love, help and understanding. He helped me a lot in my field work and I know that he is always with me throughout my life. Thank you for being a Dear Husband.

I wish to thank all the individuals who are related with my life because without their love and support, this work would not be possible. Above all I want to thank God for his Love and Blessings.......Sree Guru....!
