ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The author acknowledged with deep gratitude the unfailing help and valuable guidance from a number of people who helped to shape the ideas found in this research.

The researcher is deeply indebted to Prof. A.K. Ghosh (Retired), Dept. of Geology, Jadavpur University for his invaluable guidance and suggestions about the thesis. Dr. A.P. Krishna, Senior scientist (G.B. Panth Institute of Himalayan Studies, Sikkim), Dr. D. Ghosh, (Retired), Dept. of Environment, Govt. of West Bengal, Dr. S. Bandopadhyay, Reader, Burdwan University, Dr. S. Bhattacharya, Assistant Professor, Presidency College, Dr. S. Choudhury, Sr. Lecturer, Jogomaya Devi College, Kolkata, also deserves special thanks for their suggestions which helped the researcher to give the idea a final shape.

The researcher extended the thanks to Mr. P.K. Dong (Deputy Secretary, Dept. of Tourism, Govt. of Sikkim), Late Mr. Pariyar, the then Deputy Secretary, Dept. of Tourism, DGHC for sharing their ideas on the tourism development, its trend and its relation with sustainable development.

The researcher also thanks to Dr. U. Bhattacharya, GSI, East Sikkim, Dr. P. Bhowmik, GSI, East Sikkim, Mr. S. Das and Mr. A. Kumar, Census of India, East Sikkim, Mrs. K. Lama, PHE, Gangtok, Govt. of Sikkim, Mr. P.D. Lepeha, UD& HD, Gangtok, East Sikkim, Mr. Wangi, Dept. of Economics and Statistics, Govt. of Sikkim, Mr. A. Dasgupta, Agricultural Meteorological Station, Baluakhan, East Sikkim, Mr. T. N. Tashi, Dept. of Geology & Mines, Govt. of Sikkim, Mr. S. Dewan, Deputy Secretary, Darjiling Gorkha Hotel owner association. Mr. L. Chhetri, Dept. of Commercial Tax, DGHC, Darjiling. Mr. Roshan Rai of RCDC, Prema, Darjiling, Mrs. M. Desai, Netaji Institute of Asian Studies for providing valuable informations & suggestions which has made this work possible.

Acknowledgements are also due to all those people associated with different offices in Darjiling and Gangtok who has rendered their valuable time and extended help throughout the period of work.
The author also expressed her grateful thanks to all those domestic tourists, foreign tourists, local people, businessman, Shop owners and people related with tourism who showed their great patience and spent valuable time while they have been interviewed by the author.

The different libraries also deserve thanks for their excellent co-operation. In this respect, mention should be made about Library, Dept. of Geography, University of Calcutta, Central Library, University of Calcutta, Library, Indian Institute of Management (IIM), Joka, Kolkata, Indian Statistical Institute (ISI), Kolkata, Library, British Council, Kolkata, North Bengal State Library, Cooch Behar, Library, G.B. Panth Institute of Himalayan Studies, Tadong, East Sikkim, etc.

The researcher also expressed her thanks to Sri T. Rakshit, Mr. S. Das, Ms. Moumita Ghosh, Ms. Supriya Saha, for their excellent co-operation during fieldwork and post fieldwork. The researcher also extended special thanks to Satarupa for the every help, which she has rendered for the completion of the thesis.

Ms. Ruby Das should be thanked profusely for typing the manuscript and giving its present shape. The author also thanked to Dr. T. Das and Mr. S.Tripathi for soil sample testing and Mr. S. Roy, Mrs. S. Chattopadhyay Mr. S. Biswas for their help rendered in mapping and photo editing.

The researcher also expressed her thanks to all associated with the Department of Geography, University of Kolkata for providing an excellent academic environment, encouragement, assistance and moreover pleasure for working throughout the long period of research. Finally the researcher apologizes to those whose names have been inadvertently omitted in the thesis.

Outside the academia, the researcher is greatly indebted to her family who provided endless support and encouragement throughout this long period of research. The researcher also wishes to give special thanks to her grandmother, dear ‘Dida’ and her two sister, Kutti and Tusi, for their immense tolerance, patience and invaluable assistance in various facets of the work specially during the writing and final preparation of the thesis.