The present work is a study on the early Andhra region from the 6th to the 10th century CE. On being awarded the University Research Fellowship of the University of Calcutta in 2007, I decided to pursue my research on a region and a period which has not been traversed by many. I found that apart from rendering information on political history, studies on the territory embracing modern Andhra Pradesh does not offer a holistic picture of material world from the 6th to the 10th century CE. With my penchant for epigraphy I realised that the same can be reconstructed from epigraphic materials. I discussed the possibility with my supervisor Dr. Suchandra Ghosh and she encouraged me to plunge into the world of copper-plate charters and other genre of inscriptions found from this region. I offer my heartfelt thanks to her for being there for me throughout my research-work. My sincere thanks goes to Professor B.D.Chattopadhyaya who gave me valuable suggestions on the formation of the chapters. The discussions which I had with him helped me to organize my thoughts. I am also thankful to the teachers of the Department of Ancient Indian History and Culture for their unstinted support.

While putting together my thoughts, I have used various libraries. I acknowledge with gratitude my debt to the Library of the University of Calcutta (Alipore Campus) and the Libraries of Ramakrishna Mission Institute of Culture (Gol Park) and Centre for Archaeological Studies and Training, Eastern India (CASTEI).

I recall the blessings of my father Sri Swapan Kumar Pramanik and my mother Smt. Manju Pramanik. I wish to offer my gratitude to my father-in-law Sri Satyeswar Nayak, mother-in-law Smt. Pratima Nayak and sister-in-law Smt. Saswati Nayak for their active co-operation. Lastly, I would specially like to thank my husband Sri Soham Nayak without whose constant co-operation this thesis would not have been completed.
