Acknowledgements

I am extremely indebted to a large number of individuals and institutions who have helped me in one way or other in the preparation of this thesis.

I am so grateful to my Research Guide, Dr. H. Rajashekar, Reader, Department of Studies in Commerce, University of Mysore, for his gracious help and encouragement throughout my research work. His generosity in guiding, mentoring, giving constructive suggestions, and sharing ideas helped me prepare this thesis in the present form. It was an opportunity of a lifetime to work with him.

I sincerely thank the authorities of University of Mysore for having given me an opportunity to pursue my doctoral study. I am especially indebted to Professor and Chairman, Department of Post-graduate Studies and Research in Commerce, University of Mysore who believed that teacher should continue to be active scholars, and, as a result, my efforts and time to complete this thesis were strongly supported. I also wish to thank the other faculty members of Department of Post-graduate Studies and Research in Commerce for their encouragement and moral support.

My sincere thanks go to all the respondents, executives and staff members of various departments for their cooperation in the collection of data and also for their valuable suggestions.

I am indebted to grandmothers, my father, mother, sisters, brothers and brother in law and also my kindly wife and my son for encouraging me to complete my thesis at the earliest.
Finally, I express my gratitude to my friends, Mr. Mohammad Motiee and Mr. Mohammad Mehdi Mohebi for their sincere cooperation and support in completing this work.
