ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I am indebted to the revered Vice-Chancellor of Gandhigram Rural Institute, Dr. N. Markandan, under whose guidance and supervision this study was conducted. He was kind enough to help me despite his busy schedule. He is the author of the concept of the Village Planning Committee and he propounded a micro model for planning and implementing development plans in villages. His experience in this field greatly enriched the study.

I thank Dr. N.S. Narayanaswamy, Project Director, GRD Trust, Coimbatore, for his help and guidance as member of the Doctoral Committee.

I express my gratitude to Sri. K. Chellappan, Reader in Extension, GRI, for providing me with the spring-board, to undertake this study.

I am grateful to Dr. B.S. Nagarajan, formerly Director, Department of ACE & Extension, GRI, for his constant encouragement.

I thank the 12 teachers who served as trainers in the 3-day training programme conducted for the study.

I am thankful to Dr. M.A. Jeyaraju, Professor and Dean, Faculty of English and Foreign Languages, GRI, for his valuable help and suggestions to complete the thesis.

I am very grateful to Dr. B.S. Bhargava, Senior Fellow, Institute of Social Sciences, Bangalore, and Dr. N. Narayanasamy, Professor of Extension, GRI, for going through the draft of the thesis and offering valuable comments and suggestions.
I am much obliged to Dr. P. Arumukham, Reader and Dean, Faculty of Rural Development, GRI, Dr. G. Palanithurai, Professor, Rajiv Gandhi Chair for Panchayati Raj, GRI, and Dr. M.A. Sudhir, Professor and Head, Department of Applied Research, GRI, for their valuable suggestions. I am also obliged to Dr. K. Somasundaram, Professor and Head, Department of Computer Science and Applications, GRI for his technical guidance.

I am extremely thankful to all the respondents of the study and the staff of the training institutes, donor agencies and NGOs visited by me for their assistance.

My sincere thanks are due to the staff of the Department of ACE and Extension, GRI, for helping me in several ways to complete this study, particularly Mr. S. Kannan, Mr. N. Sankaramoorthy and Mr. E. Perumal.

I am much obliged to my son Mr. E. S. Krishna Barathi and my wife R. Kalamani for their encouragement and cooperation for completing the study successfully.

I am grateful to the authorities of GRI for permitting me to conduct the training programme on the campus and for providing all the facilities required.

Finally I extend my thanks to each and everyone who helped me in some way or other in this endeavour.

Place: Gandhigram

Date: 14.12.1998

(A. Easwaran)