No creation in this world is a solo effort. I would not have been able to complete my work and the research without these important persons. I owe them for the motivation and the support.

First and foremost, I express my deep sense of gratitude to Prof. G.K. Saha, Joint Supervisor of this work for guiding me all through this work. I want to specially thank, my Supervisor Dr. S. Sathyakumar, for assisting me who was a novice, a mere learner, and the guidance that has lead me to complete this work with great efficiency.

I am extremely thankful to Wildlife Institute of India (WII), Dehradun for having me as a student learner Shri. P.R. Sinha, Director, Dr. V.B. Mathur, Dean and Dr. K. Sankar, Research co-ordinator, WII have my modest obligations for allowing me to work in the Khangchendzonga project. All the staff of GIS and Library at WII, I would like to thank all the faculty and the friends of WII who made me feel home in Dehradun.

I would like to thank the Registrar, University of Calcutta for providing me permission to pursue my Ph.D. work. Most sincere thanks are for Prof. S. Ray and S. Homechoudhuri, former Heads of the Dept. of Zoology, C.U. for helping me during the registration. Most sincere thanks are also due to Prof. B. Manna, Prof. R. N. Chatterjee, Prof. S. Banerjee, Prof. D. Ray Chaudhuri, Prof. S. Chakraborti, Prof. M. Das, Dr. U. Chatterji, Dr. S. Sarkar, Dr. P. Basu, Dr. E. Ray Banerjee, Dr. A. Bhattacharyya, Rakesh Tamang, the Librarian, every nonteaching staff and all the students of Dept. of Zoology, C.U. for their kind assistance.

I am grateful to the government of Sikkim and specially the Department of Forest, Environment and Wildlife Management, Sikkim, for giving me the opportunity. My special thanks to Mrs. Usha Lachungpa, Principal Research Officer and Mr. T.D. Rai, Principal Director, Research, Education and Extension. I also convey my sincere gratitude to Shri Thomas Chandy, Former Principal Conservator of Forest, Shri Anil Mainra, Chief Wildlife Warden and Shri N. T. Bhutia, retired Chief Wildlife Warden, Shri J. B. Subba, Joint Director, Khangchendzonga NP-Khangchendzonga BR for their support and cooperation. I am extremely thankful to Dr. Sandeep Tambe and Dr. Dipankar Ghose for guiding me during the initial stage of the field work and at the inception of this doctoral research. My friends at WWF Sikkim were always very cordial and never said no whenever applied for assistance. I convey my sincere thanks to all of them, particularly to Rajarshi Chakraborty, Dr. Parthasarathi Ghose and Smt. Priyadarshini Shrestha who shared many of the memorable moments with me during my stay in Sikkim.
At Yuksam, all the Khangchendzonga Conservation Committee members were very supportive to my work, particularly Mr. Kinzong Bhutia, Mr. Nima Tashi, Mr. U. T. Bhutia and Mr. Chewang Bhutia helped me by sharing all the necessary information on wildlife occurrences. I owe my life to all those porters especially Namsung, Deepak, Bhaichung and many more who were always there to help me in all the season whenever I approached them even risking their own life. Sincere gratitude is also due to my field assistants, Sukbahadur and Sukraj who effectively helped to mobilize the entire process of camera trapping in such an intricate habitat and for all the warm food and the spirit in the field to facilitate the work. All the members of our basecamp at Yuksam treated me like one of their family members and sincere gratitude is due to all the elders like Mrs. Amam, Ms. Nima Lahmu Bhutia and I convey my thanks to friends like Tashi, Tseden, Lakpa, Chungchung, Srijana and the little Chedrel. All the villagers in Yuksam were very much supportive as well as interested in our work and special thanks are due to Mr. and Mrs. Tamding for providing us logistic support whenever required.

I would also like to add my heartfelt gratitude to my colleagues at W.I.I who had been the virtual pillar of support throughout the structuring and formulation of my work. My senior, Bopanna and Vibek always helped me whenever I approached them. Special mention is required to convey my thanks to Abesh, Kunzes, Chongpi, Salvador, Satem, Malem, TP, Manjari and Shikha for helping me with logistic assistance when it was most required. The Khangchendzonga Project research team shared many of their experiences in the field and gave cheerful company. I wish to acknowledge Mr. Tapajit Bhattacharya and Mr. Tawqir Bashir for their inspiration and support. I thank both of them for their courage and sincerity. They were always with me in good and in bad situation. We shared all the work in the field with great respect and sincerity.

I am grateful to my wife Martha for being with me and supporting me always. She inspired me all through the work and was always there whenever I approached for help.

It is meaningless to try and express my obligations to my parents, no word will be sufficient for this and I refrain from such a vain attempt. And last not the least, God who protected and blessed me with all these wonderful people in my life.
