ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

I feel privileged to have as my supervisor Professor Tapati Gupta. Without Professor Gupta’s encouragement, inspiration, support and advice, I would never have had the confidence to undertake this task, let alone see my thesis grow and finally take shape. She has also been extremely patient and a source of motivation, guiding me and regulating my thought process constantly. I am most deeply indebted to my mentor.

I would also like to thank my other teachers of the University of Calcutta and the erstwhile Presidency College for their consistent intellectual guidance and affection and the library staff of both University of Calcutta and the erstwhile Presidency College for their unstinted cooperation. I must also thank some of my former students whose insights and interactions have also been very helpful.

Equally helpful have been the support and assistance of Mrs. Sova Sen Dutt as she has not only provided me with invaluable materials but has also opened her library to me for my research.

Most importantly, I would like to thank my parents who introduced me to the world of literature and theatre as without them none of this would have been possible. Finally I would like to thank my wife for bearing with me during the various phases of this enterprise and for bringing me so much joy.
