I record my indebtedness and heartfelt gratitude to Dr. R. Das, Vice-Chancellor, Rabindra Bharati University, Calcutta, who has initiated me to the fascinating field of philosophical logic. But for his constant encouragement and guidance, I could not have ventured upon this ambitious programme of exploring the mysteries of philosophical logic. I have also been greatly enlightened by his various writings.

I take this opportunity to express my gratefulness to Prof. Sibjiban Bhattacharya, (Calcutta University) whom I used to meet at his Burdwan residence whenever I needed his help for solving any of the knotty logical problems. He spent much of his busy time to analyse and explain things to me.

Various published works of Dr. P.K. Sen (Jadavpur University) on different problems of philosophical logic have always been stimulating to the research workers in the field. Some of his papers provoked me to write on the topics he had covered, from an opposite point of view. Dr. Sen was never tired of discussing, and analysing the problems involved and helping me to correct some of my faulty notions. I thankfully record my gratefulness to him.
I am grateful to Dr. Rajendra Prasad of the Indian Institute of Technology, Kanpur, Prof. P.F. Strawson (Oxford), Prof. P.T. Geach (Leeds), Prof. M. Sintonen (Helsinki), Prof. Frank Harrison-III (Georgia, USA), Dr. A. Matin(Dhaka), and Dr. Kalyan Bagchi (Viswa Bharati) who helped me in shaping my ideas by their illuminating thoughts conveyed through correspondence or discussions.

I thankfully acknowledge my gratefulness to the University Grants Commission for sanctioning me a substantial financial assistance for purchasing books and journals, and visiting libraries. But for this assistance it would be difficult for me to proceed with the project.

I also congratulate all my colleagues who wished me well and encouraged me in my academic pursuits. I particularly thank Dr. B. Hazra, Principal, and Prof. S.K. Das, Vice-Principal of my college, who have always been sympathetic to me.

Sree Sib Sankar Hazari deserves all appreciation for having typed necessary copies of the thesis in minimum time. Thanks to Sree Hazari I could submit my thesis before the expiry of the final date. I am grateful to him.
