Acknowledgement

I gratefully acknowledge my gratitude to Prof. S. K. Munsi, Prof. of Geography and Guest Lecturer of the University of Calcutta, for his valuable guidance and kind co-operation. I offer my sincere thanks to him for giving me suggestions to enrich my Ph.D. thesis and for always showing keen interest in my research work.

I am indebted to Smt. Suprava Roy, Reader of Geography, University of Calcutta, for her kind and constructive comments on my research work. Thanks are also due to the members of the Ph.D. committee, University of Calcutta and to Dr. M. K. Bandopadhyay, Head of the Department of Geography, University of Calcutta, for their critique at the Ph.D. seminar. I am thankful to Dr. Maya Dutta, principal of Lady Brabourne College, Calcutta and to Dr. Keya Dasgupta of the Centre for Studies in Social Sciences, Calcutta, for their helpful suggestions.

I convey my gratitude to Mr. D.K. Bhattacharya, Managing Director, Directorate of Registered Factories, Govt. of West Bengal, for his co-operation in collecting data. Thanks should also be given to Mr. S. K. Bhandari, Personnel Officer, Coal India Ltd., Calcutta and to A.K. Gupta, Personnel Officer, Eastern Coal Limited, Dishergarh, for their assistance in collecting data and maps of collieries. I am also grateful to Mr. S.K. Sen, Labour Officer, IISCO and to many unknown workers of small and large units of Barddhaman district for their steady response at the time of field survey.

I owe much to my parents, brothers and sisters and to my friends for giving me constant encouragement.
