ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Although this research work has been carried out by me, it owes its completion to many people. I owe my greatest debt of gratitude to Dr. O.R. KRISHNASUAMI, formerly Senior Professor, Dean and Head of the Department of Commerce and Management Studies, Bangalore University, Bangalore. He has been resourceful in every sense. He gave his time and energy most generously. I express my deepest sense of gratitude to him.

I am deeply indebted to my guide Dr. V. KULANDAISUAMY, P.G. Department of Cooperation, Sri Ramakrishna Mission Vidyalaya Arts College (Autonomous), Coimbatore. He filled the vacuum created by the absence of Dr. O.R. Krishnaswami, who left the country on a foreign assignment. He was very generous and whole heartedly accepted to guide my study in the place of Dr. O.R. Krishnaswami. He evinced keen interest in the study and spared his valuable time and energy most generously. I venture my deepest sense of gratitude to him, although words can do little justice for what he has done.

I extend my thanks to Dr. Dhanulnganadar, Professor and Head of the Department of Commerce, Madurai Kamaraj University, Madurai and Dr. B.S Jagarajan, Professor and Dean of the faculty of Rural Social Sciences, Gandhigram Rural Institute, Gandhigram for their contribution as members of the Doctoral Committee.

I am very much indebted to the former Vice-Chancellor of Gandhigram Rural Institute, Prof. Devendrakumar, who helped me to get myself registered for the Ph.D Programme.

My thanks are due to the present Vice-Chancellor Prof. D.K. Oza, whose guidance and support have always been with me.

At this juncture I would like to place on record my appreciation to the authorities of Gandhigram Rural Institute, but for whose prompt action the present study would not have come through.

I express my sincere thanks to Dr. M. Joseph, Professor and Head of the Department of Cooperation, Gandhigram Rural Institute, Gandhigram who has supported me at every stage of this work.

Grateful acknowledgements are due to the Director of Handlooms and Textiles, Government of Tamilnadu for permitting me to collect data from Weavers' Cooperative Societies including the Cooptex. In particular, thanks go to the Managing Director Sri. N.B. Gupta, Chief General Manager Dr. A. Seetharaman, Marketing Managers Messrs. R. Paulraj and P. Vijayakumar, Chief Superintendents Messrs. Vairavasundaram (Marketing) and S.M. Chokkalingam (Training) and various Heads of Departments of the Cooptex; the Special Officers and Managers/Accountants of the Primary Weavers' Cooperative Societies under the study, without whose cooperation the study would not have been possible.

I am also thankful to various organisations, namely, Madras Institute of Development Studies (MIDS), National Institute of Rural Development (NIRD) Hyderabad, South India Textile Research Association (SITRA) Coimbatore, National Cooperative Union of India (NCUI) New Delhi, Tamilnadu State Cooperative Union (TNSCIT) Madras; and Sri. S.Ramaraj, Chinnalapatt, Member of the VIII th Plan Sub-Group on Handlooms 1989, Dr. S.Ramachandran, Senior Lecturer in Economics Gandhigram Rural Institute, Gandhigram and Sri. Alagirisamy, Librarian, SRMV Arts College, Coimbatore for supplying useful published materials.

Invaluable assistance was received during the period of study from some of my colleagues and students. Of them the most significant contribution was made by Dr.N.Marayanasamy, Reader in Cooperation, Dr. P.Sivaprakasam, Senior Lecturer in Cooperation, Messrs. B.Tamilmanl and S.Manivel, Lecturers, Department of Cooperation; Sri. N.D.Manl, Senior Lecturer in Cartography; and Messrs. B.Balakumaran, S.J.Venkatesaii, M.Karthikeyan and S.Mahalingam, final year students of M.A.
in Cooperative Management, Gandhigram Rural Institute, Gandhigram.

I am thankful to Dr. B.R.Dwaraki, Reader in Rural Sociology; Sri. M.R. Kubendran, Mrs. S.Lakshmi, Senior-Lecturers, and Dr. M.N. Bose, Reader, Department of English for going through my manuscript and offered valuable comments.

It may sound formal if I try to thank my parents and father-in-law but yet I need to place on record my heartfelt appreciation of their constant affectionate enquiries about my progress.

However formal it may sound, I cannot but pay my overriding debt to my wife, Krishnaveni, who provided me the time, support and inspiration needed, and stood by me through thick and thin.

I am extremely thankful to Sri. S. Srinivasan, Ambathurai who did the bulk of typing. Immense thanks are due to the Professional Computers, Dindigul for their neat Computer Printing.

Finally I would like to express my appreciation to each and every one who offered help in this endeavour, sometime: or the other.
