CONTENTS

VOLUME - I

INTRODUCTION

Chapter - I

HISTORICAL OUTLINES
Hindu period; Muslim period; Portuguese period; Early British period; Late British period.

Chapter - II

PHYSICAL SETTINGS
Situation, Site Conditions; Regional setting; Evolution of the Island, the first period, second period, third period. Secondary effusion of the third period, the first effusion, the second effusion, the third secondary effusion, Crustal movements in the island; Early physiography; the present surface configuration; the shore lines; The Climate of the City; temp., pressure conditions, humidity, wind velocity and direction, cloudiness, rainfall, the probability of rainfall. Land and Sea breezes, Storms.

Chapter - III

GROWTH AND MORPHOLOGY OF THIS CITY
The early stages of development; Eighteenth Century development; The nineteenth Century growth; Growth during the last hundred years; Areal growth and reclamation: Land use and the present built up area of the City: Ground plan of the city; Roads and Railways; Buildings, architecture, ventilation, Drains and Sanitary conditions of the houses. Skyline, Drainage lines, Storm water drains; Does Bombay lend to Zonation? " Zones and Strata concept of Taylor applied to Bombay ", Sectional morphology.
Chapter - IV

THE FUNCTIONS OF THE CITY

Functional development of the City:
The present functions of the City,
Industrial; Textile industry, Silk
Woollen and Rayon industry; Chemical industry; Paper and paper board industry,
Bricks and tiles, Manufacture of glass and glass products : Fisheries Trade, Commerce and local business : Cultural functions; Educational functions,
Recreational functions : Public Utility
Services, Transport, Electric and Water Supply, Medical health services, Post and telegraph, Fire brigade and other minor services.

Chapter - V

FUNCTIONAL AREAS IN THE CITY

Residential areas, Business areas, the Commercial Core of the City, the CBD,
Industrial areas, Public buildings, Parks and gardens, Transport thoroughfares, harbour area.

Chapter - VI

POPULATION OF BOMBAY

Growth of population in the pre-census
period : Causes of population growth;
Birth and Death rate; Immigration and Movement; Composition of population, Age
Structure, Sex-ratio, Linguistic groups, Religious groups, Literacy and Educational attainment, Livelihood classes; Density and distribution, Density variation.

-- VOLUME - II --

Chapter - VII

THE SUBURBS OF BOMBAY

The growth of the Suburbs, Land use in the Suburbs, Nature and distribution of Settlements in the Suburbs; Settlements at different elevations; Orientation of Industries in Bombay Suburbs; Transport as factor in the development of industries in Bombay Suburbs; Commuting in Bombay.

Chapter - VIII

REGIONAL RELATIONS OF BOMBAY CITY

Some preliminary observations: The metropolitan area of Bombay; the demarcated metropolitan area; Trade area of Bombay; Retail trade area of Bombay; Service area Concept applied to Bombay; The distribution area of Central Railway; Distribution of Cotton piecegoods, machinery, imported steel and wheat from Bombay; The distribution area served by Western Railway; Some general observations; Supply of perishables to Bombay City; Newspaper Circulation area of Bombay.

Chapter IX

THE PORT OF BOMBAY

Historical development, Suitability of physical conditions for the port; the harbour, Docks and Port equipments, Port Trust Railways: The bunders; Volume of trade; Nature of Cargo, Foreland and Hinterland of Bombay.

Chapter X

PLANNING AND DEVELOPMENT OF BOMBAY

Land use in Greater Bombay; Zoning; The housing problem of planning: Industries and planning, Planning the transport, Railways, Parks, Gardens and Play grounds. Development of Satellite towns.

Chapter XI

A SAMPLE STUDY OF THE DISTRIBUTION OF FUNCTIONS IN THE CITY.

Purpose of the Sample; Procedure adopted, observations based on Samples; The two maps interpreted; Reliability of Samples.
Chapter - XII

THE SUMMING UP

Bibliography