Acknowledgements

The present study has taken a good deal of time to complete, and is a result of many influences and welcome interventions and it may not be possible to mention and acknowledge my sincere gratitude to each one of them though deep down I am ever grateful to everyone of them.

First of all I express my profound gratitude to my mentor and guide, Prof. Jyotirmoy Prodhani, who initiated me to the subject and guided me with his thoughtful insights for which I would remain ever indebted to him. His guidance and assistance since the inception of this research have been a constant inspiration not only for the current work but also have been a motivation for my future engagements with further research. My sincere thanks to Preetinicha Prodhani, wife of Dr. Prodhani, for her warmth and care during my numerous visit to their home as a scholar-guest and also for her involved participation in the discussions on the various issues pertaining to theories and critical perspectives in respect to my work. This has been truly rewarding.

I am immensely obliged to Sir R.S. Thakur, Dr. Dwijen Sharma of the Department of English of NEHU at Tura Campus for their profound inputs and critical support as well as highly valuable insights which was highly motivating and enlightening. They also inspired me to go for uncompromising rigour and indefatigable perseverance during the course of my work.

I am particularly proud to mention the name of Prof. Sujata Gurudv, the Head of the Department, English, North Eastern Hill University, Tura Campus, who has not only been a academic guardian for me during my stay in the University Hostel as a UGC Teacher Fellow but also figure of immense inspiration for both my intellectual and spiritual motivation and enrichment. I am humbled by her affection, care, concern and her confidence in me. I would remain indebted to her for the whole of my life.

My sincere gratitude is due also to the learned faculty members at Tura campus, Dr. Angela Ingty, Dr. Jova Marak, Dr. Ramona Sangma of English Department and Dr. F.K. Marak of Garo Department, who were extremely helpful, supportive and intellectually stimulating during the PhD course work as well as beyond.

There were many who wanted to see that I finish my work as early as possible.

I also acknowledge the moral supports and inspiration that I received from the Principal of my college, Dr. Asit Kr. Das and Mr. G.K. Das; all the faculty members and my esteemed colleagues of Pramathesh Barua College including sir S.C. Dey, A.H. Talukdar, A.B. Ahmed, M. Ali Sarkar, Dr. Gita Sarkar Bayan, Dr. Dhiren Barman, and others as well as my young colleagues Amitabh Ranjan Kanu, Kalyan Das, Tybul Islam Mollah, Diganta Biswas, Buddhadev Basumatary, Dr. Akhtarul Islam, Dr. Zafar Wajed; my colleague from the office, Altaf Hussain, Abinash Ch. Barman, Shymal Ch. Sutradhar, Naresh Ch. Roy, Kalyan Nath and every other faculty members of the college.

My sincere gratitude also goes to Prof. Naresh Jain of Delhi University as I must mention that it had been my first ever attendance in the lecture on Dalit literature delivered by him in UGC Academic Staff College, Himachal Pradesh University, Shimla, in July 2006 which introduced me to Dalit literature. Even after that I had an opportunity to share his views through mails and telephonic conversations.

I would like to acknowledge the help that I received from several libraries of the country. My sincere thanks to the librarians and the staff of North-Eastern Hill University, Tura and Shillong Campus; National Library, Kolkata; Alokesh Barua Central Library, P.B. College, Gauripur; Dr. Ambedkar Studies Centre, P.B. College, Gauripur; District Library Dhubri and English and Foreign Language University, Regional Centre, Shillong.

I also acknowledge the help of the Director of the College Development Council of Gauhati University, the Director of Higher Education, and the Deputy Secretary of UGC, North Eastern Regional Office, Guwahati, for awarding me UGC Teacher Fellowship under Faculty Development Programme to complete this study as a fulltime Research Scholar as per UGC New Regulation, 2009.
I must acknowledge my thanks to each one of them who had readily agreed to take up the tedious task of typing my work during various stages of the present work, Ritesh Singh, Hirokjeet Roy and many others.

Finally, I am thankful to my family members and relatives. It is because of love, support and care of Rupa, my wife, two little sons, Gagan and Hrishikesh, who were the perpetual source of my energy and force for they are the ones from who I received the much needed stimulation in every stage of my work. I received extraordinary support and encouragement from my sister, Swapna, my brother, Thakur were extraordinarily supportive and my parents without which it would have been quite a difficult task. Following my absence at home during my stay in the university hostel they had happily gone through all sorts of inconveniences just to see me complete this work. My mother’s advice concerning well being of my physical and mental health during my study was inspiring for me. Whenever I was home my father’s concerned query about my work made me realise that I was actually fulfilling one of his most cherished dreams. I therefore dedicate this work to my parents as a small token of my immense gratitude to them. I am profusely thankful to the almighty and Sri Sri Amma Bhagwan whose benign grace enabled me finally to complete the work.
