Contents

CHAPTER I : INTRODUCTION
I. Relevance of the Study
II. Objective of the Study
III. Scope of the Study
IV. Methodology
V. A Sociological Approach
VI. Chapter Outline

CHAPTER II : REVIEW OF LITERATURE
I. Introduction
II. What is Rape? The Importance of Definitions
III. A Sociological Classification of Rape
IV. Feminist Writings of Rape in the West
V. Feminist Understanding of Rape in India
VI. Conclusion

CHAPTER III : RAPE AND SOCIAL INSTITUTIONS
I. Introduction
II. Sociological Understanding of Institutions
III. Family
  • Broad Definitions
  • Feminist Perspectives on the Family
  • Family and Socialisation
  • Family and Marriage in India
  • Significance of the Concepts of Honour, Social control and Stigma
  • The Concept of “Throwing Out”
IV. Community
V. State
  • Women, Violence and the State
VI. The Media and Violence
  • Women and the Media
VII. Conclusion
CHAPTER IV: RAPE: MYTHS, BELIEFS AND ATTITUDES

I. Introduction
II. Myths of Rape
III. Certain Widespread Attitudes and Beliefs

CHAPTER V: VOICES OF VICTIMS

I. Introduction
II. Rape and Sexual Assault Victims of the Uttarakhand Movement of October, 1994
   • Uttarakhand Movement: A Background
   • The Media Version
   • The Official Version
   • The CBI Version
   • The Activists’ Version
   • Sympathiser’s Version
   • The Version of the National Commission for Women
   • Victims of Sexual Assault and Rape
   • The Legal Version
III. Family Rape
IV. Acquaintance Rape
V. Stranger Rape
VI. Marital Rape
VII. Conclusion

CHAPTER VI: RAPE AND THE LAW

I. Introduction
II. Women, Law and Sexual Violence
   • Law and the Contemporary Women’s Movement in India
   • Law: A Review of Literature
   • Rape and Law
III. A Critical Look at the Rape Law in India
   • Historical Evolution of the Rape Law: The Colonial Influence
   • The Indian Penal Code
   • A Critical view of the Contemporary law on Rape and other Sexual Offences
IV. The Case of Aruna Shanbaug
V. A Major Legal Breakthrough
VI. A Comparative Study of Rape Laws of the West
   • Definition of Rape and the Criminal Justice System in some Countries
CHAPTER VII: CONCLUSION

I. Introduction
II. Myths and Findings
III. Strategies to Prevent Rape
IV. Strategies for Change
V. Rape, Human Rights and the International Agenda