ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

I am extremely grateful to Dr. R.K. Sharma for his invaluable guidance, inspiration and support, who to a great extent shaped my approach to the problem and enriched the analytical input that has gone in accomplishing the thesis work with fortitude and fairness. My sincere thanks to the Chairperson(s) and other faculty members of the Centre, who gave useful and valuable suggestion in improving the data analysis and other finer aspects of the study.

My sincere thanks are to Prof. Radhakrishna for his moral support and providing me with many theoretical insights. It was my association with Dr. Doryane K. Torres, Dr. P.J. Roca (REGARDS, Talence, France) and Prof. P.D. Mahadev, that provided me with initial insights of the problem of food security, which inspired me to study deeper into the subject. I shall always be grateful to them for providing this initial impetus.

I acknowledge the cooperation of my friends, Amarnath, Andrew Lynn, Jibby Thomas, Murali K., Nalin Singh, Pramod Kumar, Rajeev Sharma, Satish Kamat, Sujit K. N. and Venkatesh Nayak in giving me full moral and physical support at various stages of the work.

I offer my special thanks to the Director, Bureau of Economics and Statistics Karnataka, Mr. Goutham Bharadwaj at District Statistical Office, Mandya, Mr. Subramanyam at Department of Food and Civil Supplies, Bangalore and the National Sample Survey Organisation for providing me the necessary data with utmost cooperation. I also acknowledge the ICSSR for granting me a fellowship in my hour of need.

I thank the library staff of JNU, Institute of Social and Economic Change, Bangalore; Indian Statistical Institute, New Delhi; National Institute of Public Finance and Policy, New Delhi and the Centre for Development Studies, Trivandrum, for providing me with all the required materials.

It would be incomplete if I did not acknowledge my family members especially, my sister Modini S. Rao who gave many valuable suggestions and provided a lot of useful information including maps. My sincere thanks to my brother-in-law Dr.C.V.S.Rao for his moral support and for providing me with material for my research. Last but not the least, to my parents, who were the main source of inspiration in my joining the course, especially my mother, who is not here to see the thesis completed.
