ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Nothing concrete can be achieved without a combination of inspiration and perspiration. Words cannot express the deep sense of gratitude and indebtedness to all those guideposts who acted as lighting pillars to enlighten my way throughout the thesis. But still I would like to express my gratitude and sincere thanks to all those who continuously assisted and supported me during my work.

First and foremost, I bow my head in reverence to the Almighty God for providing me the positive strength, energy and patience to work on this thesis. I am highly indebted to the ‘Akal Purakh’ for showering choicest blessings on me, which lead to the completion of this herculean task.

In the preparation of the present thesis, I owe a huge debt of gratitude to my mentor and supervisor Dr. Kuljit Kaur, Professor in Law, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, whose meticulous understanding of the subject has been an experience worth cherishing. Without her deep insight and thought provoking discussions, it would not have been possible to complete the present work. Her professional commitment and personal simplicity always remained a guiding star in my academic career. Her confidence and understanding of the subject always filled me with new vigour and positivity. I am thankful to her for the freedom to explore on my own and the guidance to recover when my steps faltered. With her invaluable inspiring guidance, she unhesitatingly lightened the path to the completion of this study. It is only due to her deep knowledge, patient support and focused direction, that I have been able to achieve this milestone.

I also extend my warm regards and thanks to Dr. Viney Kapoor Mehra, Head, Department of Laws, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, for her support and motivation. I am indebted to Dr. Bimaldeep Singh and Dr. R.P.Singh for their academic guidance, valuable suggestions and timely inputs. I wish to express my warm and sincere thanks to all teachers in the Department of Laws, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar who have been as source of constant encouragement to me using completion of my thesis.
I shall be failing on my part if I don’t express my deep sense of gratitude towards my respected parents, Mr. Rakesh Sharma and Mrs. Kanchan Sharma who have always supported and encouraged me in my work. I grope for words to thank them for their extreme love, affection, inspiration and sacrifices for them. They have been constant source of encouragement to me for which I am highly indebted to them. I also wish to extend my gratitude to my brother, Sarvesh Sharma and sister in law Mrs. Manyata Mehra for constant support and guidance. I would also like to thank Vaibhav Kapoor and Muskan Chawla who have always stood as pillars to me. Their concerned attitude is extremely valuable for keeping my moral high. They enabled me to have faith in me and my abilities. I would also like to thank my students who have helped me at various stages while completing my thesis.

I register my thanks to the administrative and library staff of the Bhai Gurdas Library, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar and also staff of various libraries of New Delhi who allowed me to have liberal access to the research material, journals, reports and books. I would be failing in my duties if I do not thank the Computer Hut technicians who meticulously went through all the typing work towards the completion of whole thesis.

Last, but certainly not the least, I dedicate all my love and thanks to my little niece, Siddhiksha Sharma for her silent inspiration and support.
