Chapter 1

Introduction

1.1 Need to investigate cohort fertility patterns of Indian women
1.2 Literature review
1.3 Objectives of the present thesis
1.4 Data
1.5 Chapter outline

Chapter 2

Special form of Gompertz model and its application to cohort fertility schedules

2.1 Introduction
2.2 Gompertz model and its transformed versions in modelling fertility schedules
2.3 Special form of Gompertz model (S-G model)
2.4 Comparison of various forms of Gompertz model
2.5 Application of the S-G model in Indian context
2.6 Application of the S-G model for other countries
2.7 Summary

Appendix 2

Chapter 3

Cohort fertility patterns by socio-economic characteristics of women
3.1 Introduction

45-93
3.2 Socio-economic conditions of people in India 47-48
3.3 Sources of data and formation of cohorts 48-50
3.4 Methodology 50-54
3.5 Results and discussion 54-81
3.6 Summary and conclusion 81-85
Appendix 3 86-93

Chapter 4
Distribution of number of children and age at various order births 94-118
  4.1 Introduction 94-95
  4.2 Framework 95-99
  4.3 Analytical choice for conditional probability distributions 99-103
  4.4 Validating the proposed framework using cohort birth order specific fertility schedules from India and its different regions 103-108
  4.5 Validation of the proposed framework using period birth order specific fertility schedules from other countries 108-111
  4.6 Summary 112
Appendix 4 114-118

Chapter 5
Changes in the dynamics of tubal sterilization practice and its link 119-148 with regional variation in fertility level
  5.1 Introduction 119-120
  5.2 Background and objectives 120-122
  5.3 Models for age pattern of acceptance of tubal sterilization 122-125
  5.4 Measuring reproductive period averted due to tubal sterilization 125-126
  5.5 Data 126-127
  5.6 Evaluation of various models and their comparison 127-129
  5.7 Results 130-136
  5.8 Discussion 136-140
  5.9 Summary and conclusion 140-142
Appendix 5 143-148
Chapter 6
Women autonomy and reproductive behaviour 149-161
  6.1 Introduction 149-151
  6.2 Data and Methodology 151-153
  6.3 Women autonomy by their socio-economic characteristics 153-156
  6.4 Relation between autonomy of women and their reproductive behaviour 156-160
  6.5 Summary and discussion 160-161

Chapter 7
Overall summary and recommendations 162-170
  7.1 Overall Summary 171-168
  7.2 Recommendations 168-170
  7.3 Limitations of the present study 170

Bibliography 171-187
