AKEOWLEDGEMENT

I have been very fortunate to have Dr. Debjani Sengupta, as my supervisor, and Convener of the PhD Committee as she has been a source of tremendous inspiration. Her vast knowledge of the subject, rich experience in related fields, commonsense approach to solving problems and deep insight about the multifaceted implications of the different aspects of the analytical process, lent to my efforts the required direction, systematic approach, orderliness and critical appraisal. She instilled in me the strength and courage of conviction to enable me to attain my goals, for which I shall be ever indebted. The ambience of the education department of CU (Alipur campus) also helped me to be in good spirits. Without her constant support, guidance and encouragement, this study would have been an unfinished dream.

I am grateful to the Head of the Education Department, CU. and indebted to all the faculty members of the Department of Education, Calcutta University, Alipur Campus especially Dr. Aditi Ghosh and Debasree Banerjee for their support and cooperation till date. It was a memorable experience to work with them.

A lot of people have been very helpful in my data collection process, for which I would like to thank them wholeheartedly. I am grateful to the heads of the institutions who have allowed me to collect data without any hindrance. Without their generosity, there would be nothing to work with. Collecting data is invariably a trying experience, as lots of unbelievable things happen. All those astounding challenges were met with Sayanti Bhowmik, my friend and colleague in college, who was more than eager to help me in times of need.

I am also indebted to the Principal of Surendranath College for women, Dr. Madhusree Bannerjee, Dr. Binata Santra (Head, Department of Education, SNCW) and to all the GB members for actually granting me the permission for a 2 year study under the FIP of the Xth plan period from 2004-2006.

There were many other people who gave interesting opinions and valuable suggestions, for which I would like to thank them. The teachers of the IAPQR for providing a sound knowledge of the statistical techniques used in social science research. I also thank Dr. Asish Chatterjee (Statistical department, CU.) for actually helping me with my data, statistical tools to be used and with the interpretation of the results.

My father had been an inspiration throughout my life. He had always supported my dreams and aspirations unconditionally as long as he lived. I thank my parents to be there when I needed them most. I would also like to thank my brother-in-law in helping me with some statistical computations and my sister for listening to my complaints and frustrations.

I am grateful to Samin, my husband and my Parents-in-Law for not interfering at all regarding my whereabouts and giving me unconditional freedom. It was very comfortable to have them around in times of extreme crisis.

In spite of all these people, the nucleus of my entire work revolved around my 3-year-old daughter now five. I was not aware that a tiny soul such as hers would absorb all my negative vices. Almost everyday I reached home dog tired, but one look at her face and listening to her non-stop talking would vanish all my tiredness. She has been able to make me laugh as often and as loudly as she has. There have been times, when I lost my temper and have been rude, yet she consoled me when I cried. When I would go blank, she would give me some basic common sense and taught me enthusiasm and generosity. She distracted me completely by discussing the adventures of Noddy, Mr. Bean and what Tom did to Jerry, which was what I needed after a day spent fighting with data.

I regret for not being at home, when she returned from school and for not being there when she needed me the most. It must have been very painful for her, but I am amazed she never complained.

She is my reflection and therefore my best teacher. I consider myself very lucky to have her in our lives.

They mustn't know my despair, I can't let them see the wounds which they have caused, I couldn't bear their sympathy and their kind-hearted jokes, it would only make me want to scream all the more. If I talk, everyone thinks I'm showing off; when I'm silent they think I'm ridiculous; rude if I answer, sly if I get a good idea, lazy if I'm tired, selfish if I eat a mouthful more than I should, stupid, cowardly, crafty, etc. etc.
