ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Of all who helped in the development of this thesis first mention must go to Prof. A.S. Nadkarni, Joint Director, Gokhale Institute of Politics & Economics, Pune, for his constant encouragement, patient guidance and helpful supervision and suggestions. His incisive observations helped me a lot to get at the perspective. I owe him so much that a mere acknowledgement may appear to be a perfunctory one and not sufficient to record my sincere and deep sense of gratitude to him.

Equally important is to thank my dear friend Mr. Ravi Patwardhan, presently working in a nationalised bank, who had to undergo a lot of privation, yet always cheerful and never failed to help me in typing the matter right from the very beginning when I started writing the rough drafts. So I am highly indebted to him and his family-members who allowed him to work with me for hours together, after office hours and even on holidays. Mr. L. Ramchandran, one more close friend of mine, was not lagging behind Mr. Ravi, while he worked heart and soul, inspite of his very busy schedules in the office as the Personal Assistant to the General Manager of a nationalised bank, in the final typing of the entire thesis in record time. I owe much to Mr. L. Ramchandran and his wife in keeping me in good spirits during this period.
Principal P.L. Gadgil has always been more than a teacher to me and his affection for me has no bounds. But for the initiative he had taken on my behalf in arranging for a study leave with Bank of Maharashtra, perhaps I would never have completed the present work. Principal Gadgil has always been a constant source of strength and has been helping me in one way or other during all these years. Here I shall fail in my duty if I do not express my grateful thanks to the management of Bank of Maharashtra in allowing me a special study leave to complete this work.

My thanks are due to Mr. D.P. Apte, Registrar, Gokhale Institute of Politics & Economics, Pune for providing me special facilities at the Servants of India Society's Library and also allowing me to process my data in the institute. Again, it is Mr. M.P. Khare of this Institute, who helped ungrudgingly and spared a lot of hours in the formulation of the mathematical/statistical part of the thesis. Mr. D.B. Sardesai of the Institute helped me in the computer work. To both Mr. Khare and Mr. Sardesai, I owe much.

Mr. D.R. Joshi of the Servants of India Society's Library, many a time went out of his way, to help me in getting whatever statistical data or reading material required by me and due to his experience he saved a lot of my time in 'digging out information' in relevance to my thesis. I am much indebted to him for special affection shown to me. I also thank all the Library assistants for their help.
I wish to thank Prof. J. Lobo, Fergusson College, Pune, for reading and correcting the entire draft.

I am thankful to the Officers of the Industrial Finance Corporation of India, New Delhi, The Industrial Credit & Investment Corporation of India, Bombay, Industrial Development Bank of India, Bombay, SICOM and MSFC for providing the statistical data required by me. I should single out Mr. D. B. Unde, Dy. General Manager (Statistics), MSFC, Mr. Pail-Dugal, Dy. General Manager (Statistics), SICOM and Mr. S. S. Betrabet, Chief, Project Promotion, ICICI.

Above all, I am grateful to my wife Dr. (Mrs) Bala Rau, who had to stay alone at Delhi and look after my young son in the midst of her official pre-occupations, yet always exhorting me every now and then to complete this work. But for her enormous patience, it would have been impossible for me to complete this work. I also owe very much to my dear mother and my in-laws for all the encouragement given to me.

Pune. M.V.B. Rau.
