List of Figures

Figure 1.1: World primary energy demand 3
Figure 1.2: World oil production by source 4
Figure 1.3: Proven oil reserves by region 4
Figure 1.4: Primary energy demands in India 5
Figure 1.5: Total energy consumption (kgoe) per capita in India 7
Figure 1.6: Gaseous pollutants contributing towards greenhouse effect 9
Figure 1.7: World Energy-Related CO₂ Emissions 9
Figure 1.8: Molecular structure of vegetable oil (triglyceride) 17
Figure 1.9: Edible Oil Consumption Pattern 21
Figure 1.10: Domestic oil seed production and area under cultivation 21
Figure 1.11: Percentage share of states in oil seed production 22
Figure 1.12: Carbon cycle of petroleum and bio-fuels 26
Figure 1.13: World and Regional Biodiesel Capacity 27
Figure 1.14: Power distribution during typical city driving conditions 30
Figure 2.1: Typical Mechanical losses distribution in an IC engine 67
Figure 2.2: Modified Stribeck diagram 69
Figure 3.1: Karanja Tree and seed 85
Figure 3.2: Transesterification reaction 87
Figure 3.3: Schematic of biodiesel production process

Figure 3.4: Schematic diagram of the experimental setup

Figure 3.5: Hydrometer

Figure 3.6: Digital Density Meter

Figure 3.7: Setavis Kinematic Viscometer

Figure 3.8: Pensky Marten’s Closed cup Flash Point Apparatus

Figure 3.9: Cloud and Pour Point Apparatus

Figure 3.10: Constant temperature bath

Figure 3.11: Conradson carbon residue apparatus

Figure 3.12: Schematic layout of the experimental setup

Figure 3.13: Photograph of experimental setup

Figure 3.14: Control panel for dynamometer

Figure 3.15: Laminar flow element

Figure 3.16: Inclined manometer

Figure 3.17: Configuration of fuel measuring system

Figure 3.18: Pressure transducer with adapter

Figure 3.19: Pressure transducer mounted in the engine cylinder head

Figure 3.20: Charge amplifier

Figure 3.21: Schematic of data acquisition system

Figure 3.22: Data acquisition system

Figure 3.23: Raw exhaust gas emission analyzer
Figure 3.24: Smoke opacity meter
Figure 3.25: Schematic of endurance and tribological test
Figure 3.26: Seta flash point tester
Figure 3.27: TBN apparatus
Figure 3.28: Atomic absorption spectroscope
Figure 3.29: Schematic Diagram for Atomic Absorption Spectroscope
Figure 4.1: Gentle washing for catalyst removal
Figure 4.2: Rigorous washing for catalyst removal
Figure 4.3: Density of diesel and KOME
Figure 4.4: API gravity of diesel and KOME
Figure 4.5: Viscosity (@ 40°C) of diesel and KOME
Figure 4.6: Flash point of diesel and KOME
Figure 4.7: Cloud point of diesel and KOME
Figure 4.8: Cetane number of diesel and KOME
Figure 4.9: Calorific value of diesel, Karanja oil and KOME
Figure 4.10: Torque produced by engine for Karanja Biodiesel fuel at full fuel delivery settings
Figure 4.11: Power produced by engine for Karanja Biodiesel fuel at full fuel delivery settings
Figure 4.12: Brake specific fuel consumption (BSFC) for Karanja Biodiesel fuel at full fuel delivery settings
Figure 4.13: Brake specific carbon monoxide (CO) emissions for Karanja Biodiesel fuel at full fuel delivery settings

Figure 4.14: Brake specific hydrocarbon (HC) emissions for Karanja Biodiesel fuel at full fuel delivery settings

Figure 4.15: Brake specific oxides of nitrogen (NOx) emissions for Karanja Biodiesel fuel at full fuel delivery settings

Figure 4.16: Comparison of smoke opacity of exhaust for Karanja Biodiesel fuel at full fuel delivery settings

Figure 4.17: HRR of diesel-karanja biodiesel at full load condition.

Figure 4.18: Engine preparation for endurance test (KOME):

(a) Cylinder block  (b) Cylinder liners  (c) Connecting rod

(d) Cylinder head  (e) Replaced engine parts

(f) Engine assembly with replaced engine components

Figure 4.19: Carbon deposits on cylinder head and injectors (KOME)

Figure 4.20: Wear of piston rings in 100 hr. endurance test (KOME)

Figure 4.21: SEM (150X magnification) of fresh cylinder liner surface (KOME)

Figure 4.22: SEM (150X magnification) of cylinder liner surface after 100 hr. endurance test of mineral diesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.23: SEM (150X magnification) of cylinder liner surface after 100 hr. endurance test of biodiesel fuelled engine
Figure 4.24: Variation in lubricating oil kinematic viscosity (@ 40°C) with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.25: Variation in lubricating oil density with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.26: Variation in lubricating oil total base number (TBN) with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.27: Variation in lubricating oil ash content with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.28: Variation in lubricating oil moisture content with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.29: Variation in lubricating oil flash point with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.30: Variation of Fe concentration in lubricating oil with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.31: Variation of Cu concentration in lubricating oil with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.32: Variation of Cr concentration in lubricating oil with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.33: Variation of Al concentration in lubricating oil with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.34: Variation of Pb concentration in lubricating oil with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine
of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.35: Variation of Mg concentration in lubricating oil with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.36: Variation of Zn concentration in lubricating oil with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.37: Variation of Ni concentration in lubricating oil with usage of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.38: Ferrogram of fresh lubricating oil of biodiesel fuelled engine

Figure 4.39: Ferrogram showing wear debris in lube oil from diesel engine after 100 hr of usage

Figure 4.40: Ferrogram showing wear debris in lube oil from biodiesel engine after 100 hr of usage

Figure 4.41: Eng power of diesel- ATF Fuel

Figure 4.42: Eng Torque of diesel- ATF Fuel

Figure 4.43: Heat release rate of diesel- ATF at full load condition

Figure 4.44: BSFC of diesel- ATF at full load condition

Figure 4.45: CO emission for diesel vs. ATF

Figure 4.46: UHC emission for diesel vs. ATF

Figure 4.47: NOx emission for diesel vs. ATF.

Figure 4.48: Smoke opacity for diesel vs. ATF.

Figure 4.49: Variation in lubricating oil Viscosity with ATF
Figure 4.50: Variation in lubricating oil TBN with ATF

Figure 4.51: Variation in lubricating oil density with ATF

Figure 4.52: Variation of Iron with ATF

Figure 4.53: Variation of Copper with ATF

Figure 4.54: Variation of Chromium with ATF

Figure 4.55: Variation of Aluminium with ATF

Figure 4.56: Variation of magnesium with ATF

Figure 4.57: Variation of Zinc with ATF

Figure 4.58: Variation of lead concentration with ATF

Figure 4.59: Variation of nickel concentration with ATF

182
182
183
183
183
183
183
184
184