ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

The Woods are lovely, dark and deep... But I have promises to keep and miles to go before I sleep... Expressing gratitude to the ones without whose support, this endeavor could not have been possible is unimaginable. As I sit down to pen down the feelings, words are just not sufficient. However, I articulate my feelings truly from the core of my heart to:

Lord Almighty, the merciful and compassionate, by whose boundless grace I have been able to complete my thesis. His grace was the sustaining factor which provided me the desired enthusiasm and direction to plunge into the endeavor of this research work.

Professor Bhupinder Singh Bhoop, my reverend and affable supervisor, whose stimulating, motivating and valuable inputs and ideas helped me complete the assigned work. He has been a supervisor who has guided me, a father who has scolded me and a teacher who has always corrected me. The work would not have the spirit that it now contains owing to his educational, academic, psychological and human support that he has rendered me. He has stood for me and provided me the belief to complete this journey time and again. His comments on research drafts are themselves a course in critical thought, which I will always cherish and benefit from. I am yet to see the limits of his wisdom, patience, and selfless concern for his students.

Professor Om Prakash Katare, my venerated supervisor, for his timely guidance and help throughout the sojourn of this work. I wish to express my profound sense of sincere and deep gratitude for his comments and suggestions. In fact, his peaceful and benevolent nature has assisted me many times both personally and professionally.

I would also like to extend my heartfelt thanks to the Chairperson, Professor Bhupinder Singh Bhoop, University Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences, Panjab University, for providing me with all the essential facilities to carry out my research work.

Prof V R Sinha, Prof Indu Pal Kaur and Late Prof Shishu for furnishing the precious fill ups and sharing their pearls of wisdom. Dr Amita and Dr Vandita for their support and the continued enthusiasm which they have provided me.

M/s Cipla Pharma and M/s Mylan for providing the ex gratia samples of Darunavir and Lopinavir, respectively.

The technical and non-teaching staff of UIPS esp. Ms Hema Sharma (Librarian, U.I.P.S), Mr Chaman Lal, Mr Anil Kumar, Mr Vikram, Mr Dheer
Singh, Mr Buta Singh, Ms Swaroop Singh, Mr Sahib Singh, Mr Aman, Mr Rahul Dangi and Mr Sham Singh, for their timely help and support.

My friends, Mr Sarwar Beg, Ms Sheetu, Ms Poonam Negi, and Ruchika Mittal who did much more than their share of co-workers in providing me a chuckling atmosphere at work.

My seniors, Amit Sir, Rishi Sir, Kaisar Sir, Basant Sir, Shantanu Sir, Rajendra Sir and Gurjeet Mam for helping me with their sagacious inputs. Thank you does not seem sufficient but it is said with much appreciation and respect.

Some special individuals, Ms Kamal Preet, Mr Harinder Singh for their wholehearted cooperation, wherever sought for.

My lab-mates, Ms Rajneet Kaur Khurana, Mr Premjeet Singh Sandhu, Ms Shikhalohan, Ms Kanika, Mr Gajanand, Mr Neeraj, Mr Atul Jain, Ms Ranjot Kaur, Ms Ripandeep Kaur, Mr Ashay Jain, Mr Mandep Sharma, Ms Shivanilppal, Mr Sumant, Ms Teenu and Ms Supriya Verma and my juniors, Ms Kirandeep Kaur Saini, Mr Shubham, Ms Shikha Aggarwal, Ms Mandep Kaur Saini, Ms Neelam Ms Sidhima and Mr Rajkishore for providing a homely environment.

My husband, Mr Rahul Garg, deserves special thanks without his motivation and support this would not have been possible. He has supported me through the thick and thin and provided me with constant encouragement. He was there when I felt I could not go further. He guided me throughout the tenure.

My son, JrnDivansh Garg, needs a special mention. I know he would not understand now but whenever he reads this I just want to say that I am sorry for neglecting you and for loosing those precious moments where I could not see you grow. You are the one whose time I deprived and gave to my research work. I just want to tell you that Mom loves you a lot.

My parents and In-Laws, who have in their own ways pushed me through the journey and supported my decisions. For their unbound patience, I owe them.

All those researchers, scientists, and other people who have worked, written, published and distributed various books, journals, publications, and patents, I have referenced from.

Those experimental animals who had to lay down their lives in making this endeavour successful.
