ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

In preparing an acknowledgement to this research work, numerous individuals come to my mind, who raised the challenge of making the work successful. Any person alone can never do a work of this nature. I have been able to bring this work in the present shape only because of healthy co-operation of a number of heads and hands.

First of all, I am grateful to the Almighty God who has always been a supreme force behind me and provided me encouragement and moral support to complete this thesis. Where things seemed almost impossible, I felt God is with me and showering his blessings and grace to me. I remain bowed to him.

I am finding myself short of words to express my deep sense of gratitude and respect to my esteemed supervisor Dr. Amarjit Singh Sethi, Professor, Punjab School of Economics, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar who, despite his immense academic responsibilities ungrudgingly spent a lot of his invaluable time in supervising this study. Besides his sympathetic and inspiring attitude, he has provided persistent encouragement and enthusiastic guidance, which cannot be circumscribed in words. I earnestly believe that without his invaluable suggestions, endless patience and constructive criticism, this work would not have been completed. I am very lucky to have the privilege and honour of completing this work under his unparalleled guidance and supervision. Indeed, as to what I owe to him is difficult to put in words; without his keen interest and untiring involvement, the study would not have seen light of the day.

I am highly thankful to Dr. Vikram Chadha, Professor and Head, Punjab School of Economics, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar for providing me all the requisite facilities in the department for the completion of this dissertation.

I am also thankful to the library staff of Punjab School of Economics and Bhai Gurdas Library, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar, for having provided me the requisite research material available with them in the library.

During the course of the study, I visited a number of institutions/organizations at New Delhi such as Central Statistical Organisation; Delhi School of Economics; National Institute of Health and Family Welfare; Ministry of Health & Family Welfare; National Sample Surveys Organisation; National Accounts Statistic Division of CSO; Planning Commission, etc. I gratefully acknowledge the help rendered by the librarians of these institutions/organizations for extending me access to the research material available in these libraries.

Further, I express my gratitude to Dr. (Mrs.) Mohanjeet Nagpal Sethi, Principal, Guru Nanak Dev University College, Chungh, for her moral support, inspiration, and fruitful suggestions, which considerably added to the quality of my work.

It is my honour & privilege to thank Dr. Rakesh Mohan Sharma, Principal, Guru Nanak Dev University College, Niari, for his encouraging words for completing the task.

My humble thanks must also be reserved for my respected parents Lt. Sh. Harsh Kumar Pandhi and Lt. Smt. Shardha Pandhi, who encouraged and motivated me to do the research.

I also express my gratitude to my parents-in-laws Sh. Vijay Kumar Nayyar and Smt. Rita Nayyar, who every time encouraged and supported me to complete my research work. Words would not be enough to repay what they have done to me.

Words do not come up to marks to qualify the feelings in my heart for my loving husband Mr. Kunal Nayyar who always stood by me in thick and thin and without whose persistent support, this piece of work would not have been possible.

The plentiful loving thanks go to my sweet and adorable little kid Kairav Nayyar whose nesting-time has been stolen by me with a heavy heart for this work. All the joys he has provided to me & all the hopes he implanted in me, exhorted me to complete this work so as to give him his due at the earliest.

My sincerest thanks are also to all those dynamic personalities, all nears and dears, and for my friends (especially Dr. Basit Kaur, Assistant Professor, Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar), whose contribution to this work in terms of valuable suggestions are also beyond the limit of words and sentence.

My thanks are also due to M/s Computer Hut, Kabir Park, Amritsar for formatting the present manuscript.
