ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

My foremost gratitude to Dr. Sucharita Sharma for guiding me throughout these years with her knowledge and sincere advice and showering her blessings on me.

Now, I would like to take this opportunity of thanking all those individuals and institutions without whose help and support it would not have been possible for me to give this work the present form. My sincere thanks and gratitude to my teacher, Dr. Baldev Gambhir, Head of Fine Arts department, (retd.), BBK DAV College for women, Amritsar, with whose encouragement I ventured to work on this subject. He provided me with his valuable and ready guidance whenever needed.

It seems to be quite difficult to put in words to thank my parents for their support, especially my mother, in making me understand the Sanskrit dramas and plays. Being a Post Graduate in Sanskrit she gave me the best possible help with lots of patience, worked day and night for the literature part of my thesis and has always been my most important source of strength and sustenance. She saw her dream being fulfilled through me.

I remember the keen interest evinced by Dr. R. A. Aggarwal, Head of Fine Arts Dept. (retd.), Meerut, who initiated me into the subject and helped me academically through the way.

I express my sincere thanks to Dr. R. K. Mahajan, Principal, M. M. DAV College, Giddarbaha, a scholar in Sanskrit, whose rare amalgam of information and wisdom, coupled with vital enthusiasm played great role in guiding me in my present endeavour.

In addition, thanks are due, to the various authorities who granted me permission to conduct my work in their libraries: National Museum, New Delhi; Guru Nanak Dev University, Amritsar; Punjab University, Chandigarh; Punjabi University, Patiala; Sadhu Ashram, Hoshiarpur; Arts College, Chandigarh; Government Museum, Chandigarh.

I would like to acknowledge the extensive help received from Dr. Tirthankara Bhattacharya, Head Deptt. of Visual Arts, Punjab University, Chandigarh, for allowing me to sit for hours in the library and extract material out of the rich collection of Old Catalogues, Journals, Magazines, most helpful in my thesis. My special thanks to Mr. Vinod Aggarwala, Asstt. Secretary, Lalit Kala Academy, New Delhi, to permit me to consult the rare books in the library of Fine Arts Section.
My special thanks to all the authorities of various Museums who allowed me to study and photograph the works of Art in their collection: National Museum, New Delhi; Indian Museum, Calcutta; Government Museum, Mathura; Government Museum, Chandigarh; Bharat Kala Bhawan, Varanasi. I express my gratitude to the sincere efforts of Mr. Aashutosh Nigam to help me with the photographs from State Museum, Lucknow.

I now take an opportunity to thank my Principal, Dr. Neelam Kamra, for her encouragement and admiration. My special gratitude to Dr. Neeta Mohindra, Head of Fine Arts Deptt. who has always been a source of inspiration since last seventeen years as my teacher and now my colleague. I consider myself fortunate for her guidance and blessings. Thanks to my colleague Dr. Jeewan Sodhi for helping me in all possible ways from time to time. I am greatly indebted to my friend and colleague, Ms. Namarta Sharma, for extending her help in visiting Government Museum, Chandigarh and for encouraging in the times of stress during the course of my Research. A special thanks to my friend Ms. Smiley who helped me to photograph in the Government Museum, Mathura and also designed the title page.

It also remains for me to thank Mr. Manish Mohan, for the efforts put in by him in typing, editing, formatting, designing and getting the thesis printed as per my requirements and satisfaction.

It is always hardest to put in words the gratitude one feels toward one’s family at the end of the long, tedious process of writing a Thesis. The contributions here are invisible, yet only I know how crucial the support of my husband and sons have been in holding my life together over these years. My husband Mr. Sandeep, has always admired my efforts and I consider myself fortunate to be his better half. My most sincere acknowledgement to my little hearts Hardik and Harshit who sacrificed the fun of much of the past years to allow me to work hard with the data.

I am highly indebted to all those Archaeologists & Art Historians, esp. A.K. Coomarswamy, A. Cunningham, Asthana Prabha, R. C. Sharma, to name a few, whose excavations and interpretations helped me extensively in giving my research the present shape, with a hope that my efforts would be appreciated. If this expectation is fulfilled, then my labour with the best possible available sources might be considered successful by the readers and all art lovers.
